Vancouver Aids Wismer Fighting Changes In Code

VANCOUVER (UP)—The City of Vancouver will back Attorney - General Gordon Wismer in fighting proposed amendments to the Criminal Code of Canada.

The amendments, scheduled to take effect in October, would abolish absolute jurisdiction of magistrates over certain minor indictable offences, including gambling house charges.

The city council Tuesday instructed Corporation Counsel Arthur Lord to register official opposition of the city, which would be deprived of thousands of dollars in fines, with the Minister of Justice.

Vancouver's members of Parliament will be asked to oppose the amendments. Attorney - General Wismer said he hoped the matter could be fought on the floor of the House before taking effect.

Britain Bolsters Frontier Posts

Britain has sent two warships to Cyprus (1), with others alerted at Malta for possible use in tense situation in Palestine (2). Britain dismissed Israel's complaint against British troops sent to Aqaba, Trans-Jordan (3), and London sources said probably more troops would be sent to that strategic post on the Palestine frontier. The Israeli government refused to accept a British protest against Israeli action in shooting down five British planes near Rafa (4).

Bevin's Proposals Win Full Cabinet Support; House To Get Details

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Bevin apparently won from the full British cabinet today approval for his get-tough policy against Israel.

A high government source reported there would be no change in British Middle East policies. He said Bevin will give parliament an account of affairs there soon after it convenes next Tuesday.

Bevin gave the cabinet a report on the Mid-East crisis.

The report included the reasons behind the decisions to establish R.A.F. patrols along the Egyptian-Palestine border. It was near there that five R.A.F. planes were shot down by Israeli's last Friday.

Roads In Texas Closed; Wires Still Under Snow

CHICAGO (AP) — Winter continued to play favorites in the United States today. It slapped the Far West, the Pacific northwest, west Texas and the panhandle with chilling snows, sleet and cold. And it caressed the south with balmy breezes that brought flowers into bloom.

Snow—The fourth straight day of it—was predicted for one-time sunny southern California. However, the forecast was that it wouldn't continue cold in the orange and lemon-growing belt—a minimum of 26 in comparison with the frosty 19 of early Monday.

Sheets of ice and sleet gripped much of west Texas and the panhandle inches thick—felled telephone lines and closed all roads in the Amarillo area.

SCHOOL CLOSED

Schools were shut down and bus schedules canceled. Power and telephone lines by the hundred were downed in west Texas and two deaths attributed to the weather reported there.

Prolonged cold brought a new problem to the Pacific northwest—a power shortage. The long freeze cut the flow of water in ice-clogged streams and rivers, reducing the water supply needed for power generators.

A voluntary brown-out went into effect in Oregon for outdoor lighting to conserve electricity. Power company officials said the northwest power pool "rode through the critical period" last night on a "slender margin of safety."

Warmer weather was in prospect for Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma where sleet and rain has hampered normal life for three days. Power lines were down in some areas and both rural and city schools closed in others.

In contrast, shirt sleeves and spring clothes were in season in the southern states. A broad area from the Carolinas across the southeastern states to New Orleans basked in temperatures up in the high 70s and low 80s.

Johnson Appointed High Commissioner To Act In Dublin

OTTAWA (CP)—D. M. Johnson, head of the External Affairs American and Far Eastern division, today was named Acting Canadian High Commissioner in Dublin. He replaces Hon. W. F. M. Turgeon, appointed chairman of the Royal Commission on National Transportation.

The External Affairs Department also announced the following additional appointments and staff changes:

A. F. W. Plumptre, 42, associate editor of Toronto Saturday Night, to be head of the department's economic division.

Leon Mayrand, 44, now head of the European division, to be head of the American and Far Eastern division.

Marcel Cadieux, 34, a member of the personnel division, to be acting chief.

T. W. L. MacDermot, 53, head of the personnel division, to be head of the European division.

The announcement said Mr. Johnson would serve as High Commissioner to Eire "in the absence of" Mr. Turgeon. This indicated the latter may return to that post after the transporation inquiry is ended.

Plan Legislation To Revise Rent Control In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Legislation to extend rent ceilings 27 months and put thousands of dwellings back under rent control will be introduced by Senator Myers (D.-Pa.), probably tomorrow.

Senator Maybank (D.-S.C.), chairman of the Senate banking committee, told a reporter the measure might become the administration's rent bill. President Truman has asked for tightening of controls and extension for at least two years.

The present law is set to expire March 31. Myers' bill would extend control through June, 1951.

Shortening Takes Drop Of 2 Cents

VANCOUVER (CP) — Budget-balancing housewives received more good news today. The wholesale price of shortening took a two-cent slide, resulting in a similar decrease in retail prices. The lower cost of raw materials was given as the cause of the price reduction.

Blended shortening dropped one cent in Victoria, local wholesalers reported today. There was no change in the price of all-vegetable shortening.

Only A Dream

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Despite some new and fancy theories "a trip to the moon" still is just a dream, Dr. J. W. Campbell of the University of Alberta told the London Astronomical Society Tuesday night.

While science has made startling strides, the old law of the control of momentum has not been overcome and the problem of handling a space ship beyond the earth's atmosphere was one "of no mean magnitude."

A major defficulty would be the servicing of space ships.

Labor Supports Appeal To Reduce Stiff Sentences

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver Labor Council (C.C.L.) has given its support to an appeal to reduce the recent three-year penitentiary sentences imposed on two young loggers convicted of smashing $1,700 worth of store windows.

Delegates Tuesday night scored Magistrate W. W. B. McInnes for his "completely unreasonable" verdict in the case of 20-year-old William Rambeau and John Tolmie, 25.

Jim McEwen, president of I.W.A. Local 1-71, said two union locals had appealed to the Attorney-General for mitigation of the sentence, which was "aroused public indignation."

Tolmie, whose parents live in Lindsay, Ont., and Rambeau, formerly of Swift Current, Sask., both had "clean" police records.

Chiang's East China Leader Taken Say Reds

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Communist radio said today Gen. Tu Li-ming, commander of the East China armies trapped while trying to escape from Suchow, had been captured.

A broadcast heard by the Associated Press at San Francisco asserted Gen. Tu was seized "just before the annihilation of some 25 divisions under his command had been completed."

NO SOFT TERMS

PEIPING (AP)—Trustworthy reports from Tientsin today said Communist besiegers had refused to discuss a compromise and demanded complete surrender of the north China industrial city.

Earlier reports from Nanking said official quarters in the capital had written the city off as lost.

Radio reports from Tientsin said the Nationalist garrison rejected a three-point proposal for surrender to the Communists. The broadcasts said the Nationalist force of 60,000 troops had agreed to give up the city of 3,000,000 if they were permitted to be evacuated with "light arms" through the port of Tangku, 25 miles away.

PRESSURE FROM PUBLIC

The exact situation was confused. But it appeared the eventual surrender was being arranged under pressure of the people's demands.

Political observers in Nanking said rank-and-file Kuomintang (Government) Party members are becoming increasingly impatient with the so-called ineffective moves of the cabinet to obtain a negotiated peace with the Communists. These observers said this increasingly popular desire for peace explained yesterday's call for an immediate cease-fire by the Control Yuan—the country's highest supervisory body.

The Control Yuan, popularly elected, has no executive or legislative authority and has the power only to impeach. It is expected the cabinet will soon consider its proposal.

Igor Gouzenko's Book In Toronto Schools

TORONTO (CP)—In face of opposition from two Communist trustees, Toronto's Board of Education Tuesday decided to place Igor Gouzenko's book, "This Is My Choice," in Toronto secondary schools. Gouzenko is the former Russian embassy cipher clerk who exposed Russian espionage in Canada.

Score Of Petitions Protest Proposed Liquor Law Changes

A score of petitions protesting the proposed change in B.C.'s liquor laws has been received today at the Parliament Buildings, it was learned today.

The tempo of the arrival of petitions is increasing as the B.C. Cabaret Owners' Association speeds up its campaign to have the Provincial Legislature during the forthcoming session revise the laws which prohibit the consumption of alcoholic beverages in night spots and in dance halls.

The association announced today it is planning a gigantic petition with the names of 50,000 British Columbians to back up their demands for modernization of the drinking laws of the province.

According to officials at the Parliament Buildings the majority of the anti-reform petitions are signed by church members. They are addressed to the legislature.

Monty's Signals Officer Gets Post At Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—A radio pioneer of the Canadian north who became Field Marshall Montgomery's signals officer on the Western Front went up another notch today.

William Wallace Lockhart, 45, of Edmonton, was appointed by the army as the new director of signals at its Ottawa headquarters with the rank of colonel.

He succeeds Col. A. E. Wrinch who will attend the 1949 course of the Army Staff College. As top signals officer at Western Command headquarters in Edmonton, he is succeeded by Lt.-Col. G. E. Streb of Saskatoon and Amherst, N.S.

Col. Lockhart enlisted in 1922 and for three years was a non-commissioned officer in charge of the wireless station at Mayo, Yukon, one of the originals of the still-growing Northwest Territories and Yukon radio system.

He was commissioned in 1929, got a university degree and served at the system's Edmonton headquarters before the war. In the war he rose to be signals officer at Montgomery's tactical headquarters. He has long been interested in flying and has been a member of Edmonton, Ottawa and Heston, England, flying clubs.

Action Dismissed In Saskatchewan Mental Detention

REGINA (CP) — An action against the Saskatchewan government seeking unstated damages for alleged wrongful detention in provincial mental hospitals was dismissed today by Mr. Justice A. Doiron of the Court of King's Bench.

Pressing the suit was 82-year-old John Henry McDonald, former Fife Lake, Sask., farmer who in 1920 was committed to the North Battleford mental hospital by a government psychiatrist on grounds he suffered delusions of persecution to a dangerous degree.

McDonald was released from the Weyburn institution in 1946 a year after he was declared sane. He maintained at his 10-day non-jury trial he never had been insane.

He sued for 26 years' wrongful detention plus alleged maladministration of his estate.

The claims for relief were contained in a petition of right referred to the court by the Lieutenant-Governor and the Saskatchewan Executive Council.

Oil For Margarine

MONTREAL (CP)—Brazilian exporters have been attracted by the lifting of the margarine ban in Canada and are sending shipments of vegetable and peanut oils to this country, Werner L. Aron, head of a Sao Paulo export firm, said here yesterday. Mr. Aron said Brazil has a surplus of such oils from which the butter substitute may be made.

Delivers Prisoners At McMurray After Forced Landing

EDMONTON (CP)—A pilot, an R.C.M.P. constable and his two prisoners have been brought to McMurray by dog team, following a forced landing 12 miles from the outpost, some 200 air miles north of Edmonton.

Eddie Jones, pilot and owner of Mackenzie Air Service, was at the controls of his Stinson aircraft when it developed engine trouble on a flight from Fort Chipewyan, 150 miles north of McMurray. He made a successful forced landing without injury to either passengers or aircraft.

Search For Bottles Led To Narcotics

VANCOUVER (CP)—A search for beer bottles that led to discovery of $12,000 worth of narcotics in a refuse heap last August was described in police court here.

Daniel K. Conquor of Vancouver, who discovered the cache, testified Tuesday in police court at the trial of Stewart F. Rowe, a recent arrival from Toronto, now charged with possession of narcotics.

Rowe was one of the two men who escaped after an R.C.M.P. trap was laid at the scene of the discovery. Edward Morgan, arrested last September, pleaded guilty to possession of narcotics earlier and was sentenced to three year in the penitentiary.

Morgan testified Rowe knew nothing about the drugs, but was only doing an "errand" for him.

The trial is continuing.

Woman Dies On Gallows In England

She was convicted of killing a 70-year-old Lancashire woman in a robbery. The jury rejected her plea of insanity.

Miners Work 15 Hours To Release Worker, He Dies

CAIRNBROOK, Pa. (AP)—A band of miners worked more than 15 hours in one-man relays to rescue a fellow worker early today, but he died shortly afterward in hospital.

William Wallace, 27, was crushed under a 20-ton rock slide yesterday in the Cairnbrook mine of the Loyalhanna Coal Company. He was unconscious when freed.

The rescue workers had been forced to labor one at a time because of the threat of further rock slides. As they worked, Wallace whispered to them:

"Please, please. Please, get some of this weight off me. Hurry up, fellows. I can hardly stand it."

The trapped bituminous miner was knocked under a coal car by the rock fall several hundred feet underground so that only his head and shoulders protruded. The car was partially crushed and parts of it pressed down on Wallace's body.

Periodically during the rescue efforts, Dr. Ernest Epperjessy crawled on his stomach to the trapped man to give him hypodermic injection to ease his pain.

Clothing Catches Fire, Woman's Condition Poor

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 50-year-old Vancouver housewife was enveloped in flames Tuesday when her clothing caught fire in the kitchen of her home.

Mrs. S. Lyttle was taken to a hospital suffering from extensive body burns. Her condition today was poor.

Vancouver Traffic Snarled By Dense Fog, Icy Streets

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dense fog, the first since November, combined with ice and frost-covered streets here today to endanger road, marine and aerial traffic.

Hundreds of workers arrived on their jobs late while streetcars and buses were tied up throughout the city.

Ferries, steamers and small craft moved cautiously through harbor and coastal waters while fog horns sounded a constant warning. Trans-Canada Airlines reported a 45-minute delay on eastern flights and an hour and a half delay on the Victoria-Vancouver run.

Although road conditions were poor, no serious accidents were reported.

Meanwhile, navigation on the Fraser River may be tied up because of heavy ice formation, which threatened to close many up-river mill operations.

Dr. Otto Strasser Still Exists As Man Of No Country

HALIFAX (CP)—Dr. Otto Strasser, the stocky, 51-year-old former Nazi who broke with Hitler and fled his native Germany in 1933, has been a man without a country for 15 years.

In a world where a man is known not only by what he is but by the passport he carries, Strasser is likely to remain an outcast for a long time to come.

In an interview here 18 months ago Strasser told the Canadian Press that his party, formerly the "Black Front" and now "Rally for Germany's Renewal," could pull Germany and Europe out of the hole with its program of "economic solidarism," European federation and a revival of Christianity.

But Gen. Lucius D. Clay, U.S. military governor in Germany, said Tuesday German nationalistic groups which had been driven underground since the war are beginning to come above ground again. He referred specifically to Strasser's "infamous Black Front."

A British Foreign Office spokesman says Britain has "no intention whatsoever" of allowing Strasser into the British zone of Germany.

A spokesman for the Canadian External Affairs Department said Ottawa is "very unlikely" to give Strasser Canadian identification documents enabling him to return to Europe.

Strasser's life now appears ridiculously quiet. He has lived for five years on a farm at Bridgetown, in Nova Scotia's apple belt. He spends his time reading and writing, running his party at long range. It seems almost certain that he will have to keep runninng it at long range if he wants to run it at all.

One Woman's Day

By NANCY HODGES

INTERCITY FEUD

QUITE BY CHANCE the other day I picked up a copy of a December issue of the Calgary Albertan, and happened upon one of those sallies in an intercity feud which not only prevents life from becoming too dull in the cities concerned but also added to the gaiety of nations.

This particular poke was at Edmonton, which city is evidently looked upon by Calgary with about the same amount of affection as exists between Victoria and Vancouver.

And for something of the same reason. For Edmonton, as far as I could judge from The Albertan, has been trying to grab Calgary's spot in the T.C.A. transcontinental route.

RIVALRY AND RUE

NATURALLY, the Calgarians objected to this downright steal—or attempted steal—of its air supremacy, so to speak, and The Albertan accordingly told Edmonton so, in a former issue.

Whereupon an Edmonton paper, from its editorial chair, chided the Calgary paper, and added insult to injury by intimating that the day of rivalry between the two Alberta cities was gone.

And, mind you, not because their feelings towards each other had undergone a change but—and here's the dirty dig—because Calgary had been left far behind in the march of progress!

COW-TOWN CONTEMPT

NOW NO CITY OF ANY spunk, let alone one famous for its rodeos and other examples of derring-do, is going to lie down under such an affront from a rival.

So the editor of The Albertan sharpened up his spurs—or whatever it is that bronco-busters do when they take an unruly mount for a ride—and prodded Edmonton in its solar plexus.

With said spurs dipped in vitriol he poked home these points into the effete Edmontonians: Calgary is the oil capital of the Dominion, the hub of irrigation, the wheat capital of Alberta and the cattle centre of Canada.

CUTTING CONCLUSION

BUT HE RESERVED the "most unkind cut of all' for his concluding prod:

"Calgary has the one and only Stampede.

"Calgary won the Dominion football championship and the praise and affection of the whole nation. Edmonton hasn't even got a team. (That's probably what really gripes them up north.)

"Calgary uses twice as much water per person as Edmonton, and has more bathtubs.

"Edmonton has more land, but so has Greenland.

"Edmonton has more people, but so has Foochow.

"And Edmonton has more pigs."

ANY COMEBACK?

I AT ONCE SCURRIED around to see if I could find the Edmonton reply to this vitriolic blast, particularly its rejoinder to that last classic phrase about the pig population. But all in vain. I couldn't find any editorial comeback.

It may be, of course, that the Edmonton editor, esconced in his ivory tower, has loftily decided that the fulminations of a cow-town critic are something to be treated with contempt, or beneath notice.

There may be another reason. In another more recent Alberta paper I noticed a reference to something which may have diverted Edmonton's attention from Calgary's castigations, and salved its sores.

SALVE FOR SORES

IT APPEARS THAT an Edmonton taxpayer sent the Mayor and city commissioners a Christmas card which is destined to become a museum piece. It read:

"Edmonton—the friendliest city on the North American continent—has: The kindest mayor; the cleanest policemen and the most courteous officials of any city in the world; and west end bus drivers are really wonderful—I am glad to live in this fine city.

"To Mayor Ainlay and all city officials, from a satisfied and grateful taxpayer."

After that, I am quite prepared to believe that Edmonton is purring with such pride that it wouldn't even bother to put the thumb of scorn to the nose of derision in the direction of Calgary.

The Autobiography of CHAIM WEIZMANN

President Provisional Government of Israel

Still out as president of the Zionist Organization, Chaim Weizmann devoted himself to science in Palestine, where he was about to establish his permanent home. Arabs were restless at the moment, and there was little peace in sight for Jews, for the persecutions had started in Germany. Dr. Weizmann continues his story:

By CHAIM WEIZMANN

The year 1933, the year of Hitler's advent to power, marked the beginning of the last frightful phase in the greatest catastrophe that has ever befallen the Jewish people.

When I accepted the chairmanship of the Central Bureau for the Settlement of German Jews, I had no particular qualifications for the work. But the need was so urgent, the human suffering so great, and the men and women who sought help so pathetic in the misfortune which had come over them like a tidal wave, that there could be no question of preparing oneself specifically for the job. One just did the best he could.

I felt it would be a great access of moral strength and a valuable source of technical knowledge if we could offer to the Hebrew University or to the Daniel Sieff Research Institute, Albert Einstein the physicist, James Franck of Goettingen; the mathematician Hermann Weyl, the physicist Placzek, the chemist Wiegener, to mention but a few names. But somehow I failed to convince them. Some of them found homes in England, others in America. That was comprehensible, but there were other places—Turkey, for example—chosen in preference to Palestine which were utterly beyond me.

Different Life

I was in Palestine when the first stream of German immigrants came in. Here they were, these German Jews, used to a regular and sheltered life, mostly in solid business or professional pursuits, altogether unfamiliar with social earthquakes of this kind. They lacked the flexibility and adaptability of Russian and Polish Jews. Watching these people, one asked oneself; will they succeed? Will they be able to push new roots into the hard soil of Palestine? Or will they end their lives here in a sort of exile, forever bewailing the past and unable to reconcile themselves to the present?

Remembering that scene, which is ever present in my mind, I think with pride and deep satisfaction of the transformation through which the German Jews have passed in Palestine, and of the distinguished contribution which they have made to the orderliness and general quality of our work. They exercised a great educational influence on the East European Jews, who still form a majority, and who were inclined to look down upon the newcomers.

Special Settlements

We founded for the Germans special types of suburban settlements, in which the family could devote itself to the lighter kind of agricultural work, while the head of the family was within easy distance of the city. Between the garden plot and the job, such as it was, a livelihood could be eked out, and in time the system yielded good results.

In 1935 I returned to office as President of the World Zionists Organization and of the Jewish Agency. I did it reluctantly, after long and earnest pleading by my friends. I had got into the stride of my scientific work again, spending more and more time in the laboratory in the Sieff Institute, among my Palestinian colleagues. For several months in the latter part of 1934 and the beginning of 1935 my wife and I had lived in a little rented bungalow in Rehovoth, and we had begun to plan our home there. It was completed in 1937 and we settled down.

I could not help thinking that very soon after taking office I would be faced with the same old troubles. Indeed, I anticipated a harder time than before 1931, for circumstances were becoming more and more unfavorable.

Riot And War

The deterioration of the international situation, the rise of Hitler Germany, the Italo-Abyssinian war, the preliminaries to the civil war in Spain, injected new and disturbing elements into the Zionist picture. France's indecisiveness toward Hitler, who was moving toward the Rhine; England's indecisiveness toward Mussolini, who was sending his warships through the Suez Canal, tended to give the Arabs the impression that with the democracies force alone won concessions. In April, 1936, rioting broke out in Palestine, and a new and unhappy chapter opened in Zionist history.

The outbreaks were sporadic at first. In the general spirit of the period, the government did not act decisively. The Arabs gained the impression that they had in fact chosen the means and the moment well. They formed the Arab Higher Committee, headed by the Grand Mufti, and called a general strike.

In May, 1936, the British government decided to appoint a royal commission to "investigate the causes of unrest and alleged grievances of Arabs or Jews." This was the now famous Peel Commission, so-called from its chairman, Earl Peel, by far the most distinguished and ablest of the investigatory bodies ever sent out to Palestine.

Partition Broached

The subject of the partition of Palestine was first broached to me by this commission at a session which was held in camera on Jan. 8, 1937. No colleague was with me. I was asked how the idea struck me, and naturally answered that I could not tell on the spur of the moment, nor would I give my own impressions except after consultation with my colleagues.

Actually I felt that it held out great possibilities and hopes. Something new had been born into the Zionist movement, something which had to be handled with great care and tenderness, which could not be permitted to become a matter for crude slogans and angry controversy. I remember saying not long afterwards to a colleague, "A Jewish State, the idea of Jewish independence in Palestine, even if only in part of Palestine, is such a lofty thing that it ought to be treated like the Ineffable Name, which is never pronounced in vain. By talking about it too much, by dragging it down to the level of the banal, you desecrate that which should be approached only with reverence."

Moral Discipline

During the entire period of the rioting the Jews of Palestine exhibited moral discipline which won the admiration and respect of liberal people all over the world. The consistency with which this policy was maintained was the more remarkable when we consider that violence paid political dividends to the Arabs. The Jews followed their tradition of moral discipline, the Palestine administration followed its tradition of bracketing Jews and Arabs "impartially" in the "disturbances."

It looked very much like incitement of Jews to terrorism, and the human thing happened when a dissident Jewish minority, the Irgun Zvai Leumi, broke ranks at last in the summer of 1938, taking its cue from the Arabs and from the administration. But it was still a very small minority. The Yishuv as a whole, then as now, stood firm against terrorism.

The darkness of those years is relieved by the memory of a strange and brilliant figure, Orde Wingate, who has sometimes been called "the Lawrence of Judea." He won that title not only for his military exploits as the leader of the Jewish groups which were organized against the Arab terrorist activity, but for his passionate sympathy with the highest ideals of Zionism. The Jews under his command were especially feared by the Arabs. Wingate used to tell me, that when, at the head of a Jewish squad, he ambushed a group of raiders, he would hear a shout: "Run!" "These are not British soldiers! They are Jews!"

Armed To The Teeth

I met Wingate and his beautiful young wife, Lorna, at Government House in Jerusalem. He came often to my house in Rehovoth, traveling alone in his little car, armed to the teeth. He had come to his Zionist views not under any personal influence or propaganda, but by the effect of Zionist literature on his deep and lifelong study of the Bible. He preached the doctrine that unless once forced it, the government, would never do anything for us. The Palestine administration, in his opinion, consisted, almost without exception of enemies of the Zionist movement.

In World War II Wingate received an appointment to India, where he organized his famous Chindits for the Burma campaign behind the Japanese lines. His achievement in this enterprise has become one of the war's legends. He was killed in an airplane accident when he insisted on flying to an outpost in the jungle against the advice of his pilot. His death was an irreparable loss to the British army, the Jewish cause, and to my wife and myself personally.

British efforts to thwart the promise of the Balfour Declaration reached the point finally of restrictions on immigration and on transfer of land to Jews—events of which Dr. Weizmann tells tomorrow.

This is a serialization of parts of "Trial and Error," by Chaim Weizmann, which will be published in book form by Harper & Brothers on January 18, 1949. Copyright, 1949 by the Weizmann Foundation.

Call Govt. Greedy For Taxing Tips

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Alec Young, business agent of Local 743, Hotel and Restaurant Employees' Union (A.F.L.) declared Tuesday that all Windsor waiters will resist the government's laying its "greedy hands on tips they may receive."

He referred to a recent report that Calgary beer parlor waiters who have refused to pay income tax on tips have had the money deducted from returnable compulsory savings.

"Out west they are paid more," said Mr. Young. "There is more resistance to paying a tax on tips.

"Here the waiters are working for exceedingly low wages. All the government seems interested in is getting the last penny possible. They figure tips at 10 per cent of the income."

Revised Statutes Become Law Feb. 7

The recently completed revision of the B.C. statutes will formally become the law of the land on Feb. 7, the Provincial government has decided.

Date at which the revised statutes will replace the other laws has been fixed by the government in an order-in-council signed today.

Alex T. Walker was fined $50 and was prohibited from driving for three months when convicted on a charge of dangerous driving by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today. Evidence was that the autocycle he was riding was in collision with Mrs. V. Cruse on Shelbourne Street after she had disembarked from a bus.

Witness Testifies Nurse Stated She Sold Narcotics

WINNIPEG (CP)—Testimony that 22-year-old Fleur Jaques, survivor of a suicide pact Jan. 3, had said she had been selling narcotics was given at an inquest Tuesday night into the death of her ex-convict boy friend, 28-year-old Michael Petrascuk.

Student nurse Frances Finley, who had attempted to dissuade Miss Jacques from committing suicide with Petraschuk, quoted her as saying she "had been selling narcotics to a fellow and he had been caught," but that the man was not connected with Petraschuk and "not to tell the office."

The coroner's jury decided that Petraschuk had died from a "self-administered injection of morphine" in a suicide pact with Miss Jacques.

The jury returned its verdict after Miss Jacques had testified she had agreed to the suicide pact because she was unhappy and "just kind of fed up with everything."

She told of preparing equal heavy doses of the drug for Petraschuk and herself after he had suggested they commit suicide. She said Petraschuk, separated from his wife, had told her he would get a gun to shoot them both unless she obtained the drugs in the hospital.

Detectives Louis Callan and Angus Munro have questioned a number of suspects, but to date have not been able to uncover the two young men, masked and armed with pistols, who bound Mr. and Mrs. John C. Douglas with neckties and made off with $7,000 worth of rings and $73 in cash last Friday night. Robbery took place at the victims' 2514 Blackwood Street home. Investigations are continuing.

Freight Rates Fight Enters Complicated Phase

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's two-year battle over freight rates will enter a new and more complicated phase tomorrow.

Simultaneously, the Board of Transport Commissioners will begin hearing evidence on:

1. A railway application for a new general increase in freight tolls.

2. The controversial issue of the board's formula under which it granted the railroads a general 21-per-cent rate boost last March.

Ordered by the cabinet to review the 1948 formula, the board decided yesterday to do this job concurrently with hearing the railway-provincial scrap over the proposed new increase.

In doing so, it rejected a railway application that it hear the case for a partial "interim" increase immediately without relation to the question of the old formula.

The railways had applied originally for a general 20-per-cent increase, of which it wanted 15 on an early, interim basis.

In an unsuccessful attempt to have the board divorce the new increase from the old one, the carriers yesterday scaled the interim section of their application down to 10 per cent, though they said that would not meet their needs.

SERVE AS LEEWAY

The remaining 10 per cent, they said, would serve as "leeway" should the board decide to amend the formula of last year's increase, which might have an effect on any new increase.

Counsel for seven provinces—all except Ontario and Quebec—opposed the attempt to break down the case into two parts and won their point from the board.

It was on appeal from these provinces that the board had been ordered to look into the basis of the 1941 award.

It appeared that the railways now would have to try to prove both the validity of their 1948 increase along with the need for a new one.

The provinces won a second victory yesterday. They urged that the railways had the "onus" of proving that the 1948 award was right, and that the carriers should have to submit their case first.

While the board did not rule on the "onus," it did order the railways to lead off.

Fire Loss Put At $15,000

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fire ripped through the False Creek plant of Deeks-McBride Ltd., one of British Columbia's leading building supply firms, late Tuesday night and caused an estimated $15,000 damage. The blaze, believed caused by a short circuit, was brought under control in less than an hour.

The 1948 Olympics, while numbered the 14th of the modern series, were actually only the 11th, as three were canceled during the two world wars.

Eliminate Mystery Woman In Chained Engraver Incident

VANCOUVER (CP)—A "mystery woman" moved out of the cast of characters in the strange case of the chained engraver today.

While police sought a counterfeiting gang for the kidnapping of Ernest Conduit, 66, an official of the Cleland-Kent Engraving Company plant for which he worked eliminated the "mystery woman" angle.

The official said Mrs. Conduit had telephoned him about her husband's absence from work. He previously had been unable to identify the caller and police believed the gang might have included a woman.

Conduit, who came here from Toronto last June, was found by police Monday night, chained to an iron chest in a Dunbar district bungalow. He told them he was held captive for five days by five or six hooded men after answering an advertisement for an engraver. The men, he said, tried to make him counterfeit currency.

Alberta Natural Gas May Fuel Trail Smelter

CALGARY (CP) — The big Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company smelter at Trail, B.C., may one day be fueled by Alberta natural gas.

Testifying before the Dinning Royal Commission investigating Alberta natural gas reserves, A. F. Dixon of New York said yesterday the smelter would be fueled by Alberta gas if permission to export the gas is obtained. He is president of the Northwest Natural Gas Company of Seattle which was incorporated to build and operate a $100,000,000 pipeline to the Pacific coast.

The project would export Alberta natural gas to Spokane, Seattle, Portland, Vancouver and Trail.

At present the Trail smelter uses coal from both the Alberta and British Columbia sides of the Crow's Nest Pass for power.

Lonely Woodsman Broke After Spending $3,500 In 4 Days

VANCOUVER (CP) — Loneliness of British Columbia logging camps and temptations in the "big city" after a long spell in the woods were described here by Jim McEwan, president of I.W.A. Local 1-71.

At a Vancouver Labor Council meeting Tuesday night he told of a logger who came to Vancouver Dec. 21 with $3,500 after nine and a half months in the woods. Four days later he was broke and had to borrow $10.

McEwan described the incident when the plight of two young loggers, recently sentenced to three years' imprisonment after a window-smashing spree, came up for discussion.

ROUSING CIVIC INTEREST

IF THE EXISTING DIFFERENCES OF opinion in the City Council relative to Victoria's debt and financing arrangements continue to gain publicity through public meetings, some will allege the practice will cost the city a great deal in dignity. If, however, these public expressions awaken the taxpayers to the condition of their exchequer and enlighten them on the obligations they must face, the price would be small. Not that we think the mayor and aldermen should wrangle over the issue, but a healthy ventilation of the question would be all to the good.

Civic finance seldom makes attractive reading. The average citizen, confronted with a summary of fiscal policy, reads the headline and skips to some more engaging news item. Fortunately or unfortunately, the introduction of human feelings into the subject does create interest. For that reason, it may be advantageous if the mayor and aldermen seize every opportunity presented to them now to address service clubs and other gatherings on finances. Few matters are of greater importance to the people of this community. Of course such debates should be factually correct, but it must be understood that figures are only part of the story. Policy is important.

Nor should any member of the council obect to criticism of last year's civic body or of its predecessors. Last year, for instance, the city adopted a method of fixing its tax rate predicated on the theory that posterity should be allowed to share the burden for the work that was undertaken in 1948. Posterity is objecting now, not so much to the methods of last year, but to those of earlier councils when taxes were cut to a point at which further borrowing became necessary and debt charges were extended.

As far as the public discussion of such issues outside the council ring is concerned, it must be remembered that thousands of people who do not attend council meetings are paying the costs of action taken in the City Hall. This does not suggest any improprieties on the part of elected representatives, or that existing conditions are not capable of logical explanation. What is suggested, on the other hand, is that if any form of legitimate discussion can lift the public from its apathetic attitude toward important civic questions, it should be encouraged. What Victoria needs, among other things, is more civic consciousness. Let us have the debates and talks wherever they can and will be heard.

WAGON WHEELS

REPORTS THAT AN AUSTRALIAN industrialist plans to manufacture a "people's car" in that country recall to mind a similar vehicle, the famous low-cost "Volks Wagon," which Hitler promised to produce for the average wage-earning citizen of the Third Reich. Many will remember how the Nazis made a few models of their tiny car, exhibited them in various parts of the country, and then encouraged hopeful Germans to begin paying instalments on the mechanism which some day they presumably would own. Delivery date, of course, was in the indefinite future, but those who paid in a small amount each month were promised priority, and thousands of trusting burghers put up their hard cash regularly, seeing themselves in their mind's eye taking the family for a Sunday drive in the shiny little auto, all as a result of the Fuehrer's foresight and planning.

The cars, of course, were never produced in quantity. One thing and another caused postponement of the plan, and a disastrous quarrel with half the nations of the globe finally put an end to the whole scheme. What happened to the money paid in advance for the Volks Wagon was best known to Hitler and his Nazi henchmen. The German subscribers, such of them as are around yet, are still on foot.

WRITING ON THE WALL

A GENTLE WARNING OF WHAT MAY be expected in the event that the nations of the world find themselves unable to get along on a peaceful basis is contained in an article by the Associated Press Science Editor, which depicts the seven ways in which an atomic bomb explosion may be lethal. But while the disclosure may horrify when viewed in the likeness of a prediction of things to come, it is equally powerful as an incentive to avoid those almost inevitable results that will follow the outbreak of a world conflict. The visiting British author who declined in Toronto to give his views on the future of the novel, because he believed that the seven years remaining to the world before war and catastrophe strike it do not leave enough time for any further development of that form of literature, was, we hope, exaggerating. But a perusal of the varied forms in which the rampant atom can cause destruction inclines one to the belief that his grim forebodings could be correct even though his timing may be wrong.

With the initial blast of the bomb, says the AP writer, comes a concussion wave that knocks down all walls within a mile. A fierce heat radiating from the centre sets afire anything within a similar radius. Radioactive rays of two kinds—both deadly—come next. Fourth among the destroyers is intense ultra-violet light—the kind that produces sunburn—which sears flesh exposed within two miles of the blast. For ten seconds a fire ball of white hot atoms emits rays and heat dangerous a mile away. Sixth, the shower of neutrons released by the explosion do their deadly work on the atoms of the body. Seventh, and perhaps the most lethal of all because of its long-term effects, is the cloud of radioactive atoms that rises into the stratosphere to be distributed all over the world. In many cases these atoms will be as dangerous 100 years after the blast as they were at the time of release. Absorbed by plant or animal life, there may in time be concentrated enough of the radioactive atoms to cause danger to human life many years later.

These are the possible prospects—not the inevitable fate—of mankind. And if any further incentive were needed, they make obviously worthwhile every move and effort that seeks to resolve world problems without resort to war. They should be heeded well by those who want to preserve peace—and by those who would gamble on destroying peace in order to achieve their own ambitions.

WORK FOR THE TUBERCULOUS

IN A PAMPHLET ISSUED UNDER THE authority of Hon. Milton F. Gregg, V.C., M.P., Minister of Veterans Affairs, attention is called to the position of those ex-service men and women who have recovered, or are recovering, from tuberculosis. Note is taken of the fact that they are now returning to the employment field after the employers' immediate postwar enthusiasm for and gratitude to members of the forces have worn off. Moreover, they are facing, in their efforts to obtain work, the additional handicap which results from an unfortunate attitude toward those who have suffered from the disease.

This antipathy arises, no doubt, from an outmoded concept of the results of tuberculosis. At one time, before the disease was subject to early discovery and the resultant more effective treatment, the individual who contracted T.B. was taken to a sanatorium and a metaphorical blind was drawn on his or her active and productive life. The modern crusade against the disease has altered the picture. According to an estimate by the Canadian Tuberculosis Association, a total of 40,000 Canadian sanatorium patients with healed tuberculosis have returned to normal occupations in the last 10 years. In many instances, when convalescence has been complete, they are as well as anyone who has recovered from other illnesses.

What concerns the Department of Veterans Affairs—and, for that matter, everyone interested in the rehabilitation of the formerly tuberculous—is that work opportunities should not be withheld from these cases when they are well. It is desirable that they find jobs where they are not exposed to inorganic dust, or significant concentrations of organic dusts, noxious odours or fumes. Their energies should not be overtaxed by heavy manual labor; nor should they be subjected to recurrent sudden changes in temperature, or to excessive humidity. Moreover, care should be taken to see that they are not engaged in shift work of a nature to prevent them from observing regular hours. Placement by willing employers, of course, can be further assisted if advice is obtained on their particular physical and general abilities from institutions in which they have received care.

Subject to these general limitations, there is an active and productive place for the formerly tuberculous in our society—and because the latter recognize their peculiar difficulties in finding jobs, the firm or company which engages them can usually count on conscientious service from a class of people who are unwilling to risk discharge and the consequent necessity of again seeking suitable occupations.

JUMPING THE CLAIM

THE ANNALS OF SCIENCE ARE dotted with the names of a good many Russians. No citizen of that country need take a back seat in any discussion which lauds the achievements of eminent men. The fields of chemistry, physics, medicine, biology, mathematics and practical engineering, for instance, have been aided and advanced by scientists of the great Eurasian land, while the world of art, music and literature owes much to those who were citizens of Russia during and after the regime of the Czars.

With this notable national background, therefore, it is somewhat surprising that official quarters in the U.S.S.R. today are making strenuous, and at times ludierous, attempts to claim priority and its accompanying prestige in a dozen different categories of human endeavor. The recent Soviet claim to have preceded James Watt in the invention of the steam engine will, of course, be recalled. But a later claim seeks to take from the two Americans, Wilbur and Orville Wright, the credit for the first propelled flight in a heavier-than-air machine. And we now learn that other Russian claims to "firsts" include:

Steamship engines, motorships, electric ships, oil refining, petroleum cracking, underground gasification of coal, the telephone, insulated cable, electric lighting, the transformer, transmission of direct and alternating current, radio, the airplane, the parachute, the pull propeller and contemporary rocket techniques.

This is an imposing list, and no doubt will be added to as the Soviet spokesmen think of further topics. But the realm of science, unlike that of politics, is one in which only facts count. Argument, dissertation, persuasion or boasting have no effect in the face of scientific truth. And the real Russian men of science would be the first to agree.

Few can bear prosperity—especially the prosperity of other people.

Walter Lippmann

AMERICA IN ASIA

IN TRYING TO DECIDE what the United States should do Americans must begin, I think, by recognizing that they cannot shape and direct the course of events in Asia. They may be able to exert a useful influence in maintaining friendly relations between the western democracies and the emerging peoples of Asia.

Even that will be difficult to do. But if they try to do more than that, or something quite different—as for example to support puppet governments against the rising tide of nationalism and social revolution—they will almost certainly fail, and lose what influence they might otherwise have.

WHEN THE UNITED STATES assesses her position in Asia, as she must in order to form a policy, she may begin with the fact that she defeated Japan by dominating the Pacific Ocean and the islands of Japan—not by defeating the Japanese army and then liberating and occupying the vast territories in China, Indonesia and in southwest Asia which Japan had conquered. The American victory gave the United States undisputed supremacy north of the equator and up to the coasts of the Asiatic continent. But the United States did not attempt or presume to deal directly with the immense areas which Japan had conquered from the Chinese, the British, the French and the Dutch.

Having made the fundamental and unavoidable strategic decision to strike at the heart of Japan, and not to become involved in large land operations on the continent or south of the equator, it was left to the United States' allies to take over the conquered territory evacuated by Japan.

AMONG THOSE ALLIES who were conceded the right to take over after the Japanese defeat, the Chinese under Chiang Kai-shek, the French and the Dutch, had been too gravely weakened by the war to take over successfully. They have not been able to pacify the territory they lost to Japan.

Not only were they week in material power. They were without real moral authority. Chiang Kai-shek's government, though it has received far greater help from the United States than the Chinese Communists have received from Russia, has collapsed. It has not collapsed because it was beaten in battle but because it has lost the support of the Chinese people. In Indonesia and in Indo-China the Japanese destroyed, probably forever, the prestige of western empire. Though the Japanese were in the end defeated by the Americans, they had proved that an Asiatic nation could defeat the European empires in the Orient. Their slogan of "Asia for the Asiatics" continued to work, despite the surrender on the battleship Missouri.

WHERE THEN will the United States look for allies, now that Nationalist China, the Netherlands and France are so manifestly unable to play the role in Asia which it had been supposed they would play? That, it seems to me, is the fundamental problem which has to be solved in order to form an American policy in Asia.

My own view is that the right direction was indicated by Mr. Attlee when he took the bold and far-reaching decision to treat India and Pakistan as leading members of what is now no longer the British Commonwealth but simply the Commonwealth. I am told that at the conference of the Commonwealth prime ministers in London last summer, Nehru, who is certainly the greatest figure in Asia, suggested that in the future India might become the intermediary between Asia and the west. The United States would be well advised, I think, to enter into intimate consultation with Nehru about her whole course in China and in Indonesia. In doing that she should find herself in harmony with the Australians, who are surely among America's dependable friends, as well as with Mr. Attlee and the wisest makers of modern British policy.

THIS IS NOT ONLY the most promising way of approaching the tremendous convulsion in Asia. It is also the most truly American way. For the United States' position in Asia rests on a great tradition, unique in modern history. She has been, and still is, the only world power which has refused to become the imperial ruler of subject peoples. That reputation originated in the fact that Americans are themselves a colonial people who won their independence. It has been confirmed by the United States' long support of Chinese independence, by her history in the Philippines and in Cuba. Her most precious asset in Asia is her ability to persuade the people of Asia that there is a nation in the western world, more powerful than the Soviet Union, which sympathizes with their struggle for independence, and has no wish to exploit it.

THE UNITED STATES' friends in western Europe should try to understand why she can not and must not be manoeuvred, why she dare not drift, into general opposition to the movements for independence in Asia. They should tell their propagandists to stop smearing these movements. They should try to realize how disastrous it would be to them, and to the cause of western civilization, if ever it could be said that the Western Union for the defence of freedom in Europe was in Asia a syndicate for the preservation of decadent empires.

New Cabinet—Same Old Faces

By PETER EDSON From Washington

WASHINGTONIANS interested in the Chinese civil war have been taking a close look at the newly-appointed Chinese cabinet. Their purpose is to see if it offers any hope for a broader Chinese government which the United States might back with more confidence in the cold war against communism.

OFFICIAL POLICY

Three year ago, President Truman said that "peace, unity and democratic reform in China will be furthered if the basis of this government (China's) is broadened to include other political elements of the country.'" There was something of a row last March over whether this meant a coalition between Chiang Kai-shek's Kuomintang and the Commies. President Truman said that it never had and it didn't, and since he has stuck to it, that's still official U.S. policy.

A lot of things have happened in China in the meantime, which might have led to broadening of the Chinese government. The new Chinese constitution went into effect a year ago. On paper it is a broad and liberal document.

Last April, the first National Assembly (convention) to be elected under the new constitution met at Nanking. Out of its 3,000 delegates, the Kuomintang had roughly 2,440, the Young China Party had 300, the Democratic Socialist Party 260. It was still a one-party government.

Only job of the new Assembly was to elect a president and vice-president. Chiang Kai-shek was elected president, but his candidate for the vice-presidency, Dr. Sun Fo, was defeated. Instead the Assembly elected Gen. Li Tsung-jen, a liberal. This looked like a real broadening of the government, but it hasn't worked that way. Gen. Li has had even less influence than an American vice-president, though he is still being mentioned as a possiblle successor to Chiang.

HOPEFUL INTEREST

Chiang was inaugurated president on May 20, 1948. Premier of his first cabinet was Dr. Wong Wen-hao, who lasted six months. It is the new, succeeding cabinet which Washington is now studying with such hopeful interest.

The new premier is Dr. Sun Fo, Chiang's defeated vice-presidential candidate and son of China's George Washington, Sun Yat-sen. He is a graduate of California and Columbia universities, thoroughly familiar with the American viewpoint, but a Kuomintang Party wheel horse and a member of its Central Executive Committee since 1932.

Out of the 22 members in the new cabinet which Premier Sun has attempted to build, five have been members of the Kuomintang Central Committee for more than 10 years. Two are ex-premiers. Four are reappointments. Three are shifted from other posts in previous cabinets. Six are new faces. Two positions are unfilled as this is written. At least 10 of the new cabinet members are known to have attended American, British or German universities.

The names don't mean much to average readers, so there is no point in listing them. But, from the Washington point of view, the most important aspect of the new cabinet is the appointment of five ministers without portfolio. If the intention here is to set up a small group which will have broad powers in directing long-needed economic reforms, as well as tightening up on conduct of the military campaign against the Communists, it may be considered a move to strengthen the government.

ACTUAL PERFORMANCE

But the actual performance, instead of mere intent, is what will have to tell the story of how broad this new government really is. As a matter of fact, new jobs have been found for nearly all the members of the last cabinet who were dropped. Taken as a whole, the new cabinet doesn't look much broader than the old at this distance.

Money, Peace And War

By JAMES THRASHER from New York

IN Defence Secretary Forrestal's report on the National Military Establishment there are a couple of statements that set forth an obvious truth and at the same time pose a difficult problem: "The capacity for making war is not separable from economics any more than it is from diplomacy. . . . The nation demands security but it has a right to demand also that it gets its money's worth."

PRESIDENTIAL MOTTO

Those words might serve as a motto for the President, his advisers and the new Congress as they work on a budget for the next fiscal year. For they are words that really ask these questions: What is more imminent and dangerous, war or inflation? How much can we build up defences without weakening the economy?

The United States government must strike an accurate balance if the world is to live in safety. But there are not too many definite figures to help it in arriving at a total. We know that the goal is peace, not aggression. We know that Soviet Russia, no matter how devious and hypocritical its tactics, has never really abandoned its course toward world revolution. We know that American weakness, economic or military, will spur Russian efforts toward that revolution.

After that come uncertainties. The U.S. government is not agreed on whether its military strength is yet at a minimum level of safety. The joint chiefs of staff want about $4,000,000,000 more for the 1950 military budget than Mr. Truman is willing to recommend. But in reaching a final figure it will have to be remembered that "the capacity for making war is not separable from economics."

VINDICATE PREDICTIONS?

It is clear that a severe business recession or sudden deflation would do more than upset domestic economy. It would vindicate Soviet predictions and give Communist propagandists in democratic Europe a talking point of damaging effectiveness. Such a possibility might be of more immediate concern than the possibility of war.

Then how shall the government proceed? We think that Mr. Forrestal has pointed the way. War-making capacity, economics and diplomacy must be considered as equal components of national policy. And the government must see that its citizens get their money's worth if disaster is to be avoided.

One hopeful step toward those goals is President Truman's order that foreign military and economic programs be coordinated by the State Department in a single, uniform policy. Another is Mr. Forrestal's apparent determination to push real unification of the armed forces. A third is the Hoover Commission's recommendations of ways to save billions through more efficient government operations.

HARD JOB

Even with these promised helps the job will be hard. It will take a lot of high thinking and high statesmanship, and a minimum of prejudice and partisan politics, to draft a budget whose arithmetic is bound to be a major influence in the question of peace or war.

Just 'Mister'

Ottawa Citizen

In no other country, perhaps, is the title "Mister" so appropriate as in Canada. Other lands may teem with "Excellencies," and the "Honorables" may be myriad. But there are sound reasons why marks of rank should be restricted among Canadians. It is only right, therefore, that the Department of External Affairs should announce that Canada's ambassadors and ministers to foreign countries, and high commissioners to Commonwealth countries, are entitled only to the label "Mister". They themselves would not want it otherwise.

About the best they can hope for in the way of titles in this country is "Prof" or, in some cases, "Doc." They would feel silly if someone called them "Excellency," and will be quite content to be called just "Mister."

GLOBAL SURVEY

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press News Analyst

THIS NEW British-Israeli outburst is so complicated and so terribly dangerous that your columnist returns to it a second day.

One of the troubles in examining a situation with so many angles is that there is a danger we shall let our vision be limited by local conditions. What we need to do is cut out some of the trees so we can see the forest:

The current quarrel of course is the outgrowth of the Arab-Jewish conflict. And the Arab-Jewish imbroglio, like most other important international developments, has become involved in the cold war between Russia and the anti-Communist countries.

It is one of those dangerous elements which might precipitate another world war, because power-politics have become involved.

Russia, quietly and slyly, has entered the picture. Britain charges that Czechoslovakia is violating the Palestine arms embargo by sending supplies to Israel. Since Czechoslovakia moves only as Moscow pulls the strings, we are left with the clear inference that these sinews of war are in effect coming from the Soviet Union.

CAPITALIZING ON DEFEAT

What is the significance of this? The answer is that Russia appears to be preparing to try to capitalize the defeat which the Jewish forces have inflicted on the forces of the neighboring Arab states. This whole great middle-east theatre long has been within the British zone of influence — a vastly important feature of her imperial defences. Russia now is manoeuvring for control.

Right here it should be said that, so far as I know, nobody has suggested that Israel is playing ball with Russia. The Israelis need arms and if they have bought from Czechoslovakia it has been because of dire need and it has been a non-political business transaction.

BADLY BEATEN

The governments of the Arab states involved know that their armies have been badly beaten. But the general publics of the states haven't yet learned the full truth. Close observers figure that when these publics do discover just what has happened they may turn against their governments.

It may well be that Moscow is counting on this contingency. Should such a situation develop it might give Communism a strong foothold in the Middle East. Certainly that's a possibility which is worrying Britain.

PRISON WITHOUT BARS

Windsor Star

Up at Brampton, the Ontario government is conducting an interesting experiment in penology. Carefully selected young convicts are taught trades in an institution that has no bars and no armed guards. With almost two years of experience only seven, of the 155 inmates who have passed through it, have returned to crime.

WITHOUT ADVERSITY

Montreal Gazette

So long as the C.C.F. can make its appeal to the reason of Canadian voters, without dependence upon extraordinary circumstances, it has its contribution to make to the Canadian democratic system. But there would be some question of the soundness of its aims if it were to develop a vested political interest in economic distress, and if it should feel it must look for its great opportunity in the ferment of widespread adversity.

The parallels of this type of political approach and technique would seem to lie outside the democratic system, rather than within it.

BABY TREATMENT

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

It is believed that "that Boston judge who uses the 'baby treatment' on juvenile vandals and rowdies may have hit on just the thing to curb the young smart-alecks who keep on appearing in juvenile courts all over the country."

The system consists of sentencing the rowdies to live the lives of babies for 24 hours during which they wear diapers, drink from nippled bottles and are placed in baby playpens.

The judge claims that no one ever subjected to the "cure" has come back to his juvenile court.

Perhaps Boston has given us something more than baked-beans and culture.

Brentwood District To Revive Water Question On Friday

Ever since the Brentwood and district water money by-law was defeated last July, work has been progressing in that area to find a solution to the problem of improving the domestic water supply.

A public meeting of ratepayers of Brentwood area will be held Friday night at 8 in the Women's Institute Hall to hear the results of these efforts.

The water committee of the Saanich Chamber of Commerce will report on their work to find a source of supply for the area and their recommendation that a water district board be immediately formed by the ratepayers to be ready to proceed should negotiations for this source be successfully concluded.

An organization meeting has been called for Thursday evening at 8 and will be held at 1416 Douglas Street.

Program of the association included:

1—Relief to the property owner as sole bearer of school taxes; equitable distribution of educational costs on proven successful patterns practised in other countries.

2—Request of an increased share of municipal aid from the provincial sales tax.

3—Improving voting facilities through creation of several regional voting centres.

4—Uniformity of assessments and revision of assessment procedure providing relief from over assessment of certain categories of property in excess of market values.

5—Formation of a strong and well represented organization for closer direct liaison with municipal, provincial and federal authorities concerning all problems of property owners.

City May Have Own Air Mail Stickers

Tourist trade group of the Chamber of Commerce is working on an idea to have special air mail stickers printed for use on all air mail letters leaving Victoria.

The stickers would bear the picture of a seagull and would have "Victoria, B.C." printed on them besides the words "Air Mail."

It is the feeling of some group members this would bring more wide-spread attention to the city. The idea has already been given the approval of the Post Office department.

YOUR RUG?

The person who ownns a rug which was used at the scene of the accident at Fernwood Road and Pandora Avenue Christmas Eve can claim it at the city police station. It is a red, plaid type of rug. Police have had it cleaned for the owner.

Vessel Bucks Ice In Alberni Canal

PORT ALBERNI — A report that the vessel Uchuck II, of the Barkley Sound Transportation Company, bucked ice from Port Alberni to Franklin River, 14 miles down Alberni Canal, was given here by Capt. H. Esson Young.

He reported also that Kildonan Harbor, further toward Banfield was frozen over, and ice in the water between Ucluelet and Port Albion, across Ucluelet Bay. It is believed the first time since 1919 that such serious ice conditions have been observed in the Alberni Canal, which is almost completely salt water, a few miles from the port.

Young Indian Dies When Canoe Capsized

PORT ALBERNI — Kelly Moses, a 17-year-old Indian boy, died late Monday afternoon as the result of injuries and exposure when a canoe, equipped with inboard motor, capsized off Cape Beale.

Gallant action by his companion, Edward Sport, 22, and heroic efforts of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Franklin, lighthouse keepers at Cape Beale, failed to save Moses. Sport is under treatment at Red Cross Outpost Hospital.

To Bring Family Here To See Birds

Naturalists check up bird list in Beacon Hill Park. Left to right, J. O. Clay, ornithologist; Charles Guiget, biologist at the provincial museum; Carl Buchheister, vice-president of the National Audubon Society, and George Hardy, president of the Victoria Natural History Society.

"Why, spring has come to Victoria," Carl W. Buchheister, vice-president of the National Audubon Society, remarked while touring Beacon Hill Park in search of birds wintering in and around Victoria.

The air was filled with the twitter of birds.

A group of Victoria bird experts were reluctant to disappoint the well-known naturalist representing the largest conservation society in the United States. Finally the admission came. He was listening to the songs of birds kept in captivity in the cage near Goodacre Lake bridge.

If disappointed in that respect, Mr. Buchheister was not so when he saw hundreds of wild fowl wintering in the ponds.

"I never saw the like of it," he said, pointing his binoculars to a flock of ducks. His enthusiasm knew no bounds when he saw a canvass-back among the Widgeons and Mallards.

"You can't get near to that bird in the east," he said. "This is the first time I have got so close to that species."

The naturalist was surprised at the tameness of the birds and praised the beauty of Beacon Hill Park. "I am going to bring my wife and family up her for a vacation," he said.

The naturalist, as well as the group of Victoria bird experts, were stumped when they ran across one species of wild duck. They were unable to identify the bird, but believed it came from Asia.

The bird with black plumage and a red head was squatting beside one of the ponds. The duck looked forlorn and out of place.

Now and again it would jerk up its head at the group and look as if wanting to say: "I bet you don't know who I am."

Want No Penalty For Tourists Who Break Minor Traffic Laws

Just how far Victoria should go in being friendly to tourists was a matter under discussion by members of the tourist trade group of the Chamber of Commerce at a meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Group member O. B. Taylor opened discussion by declaring, "Our police force should be more lenient with visiting motorists, and should not slap a fine on them the minute they violate one of our minor traffic rules."

Secretary Norman Foster noted that in some U.S. tourist centres, a courtesy card, instead of a ticket, is given out-of-town motorists who violate minor traffic ordinances.

In most cases, he said, the courtesy cards read something like this:

"Greetings! Unknowingly you have violated one of this city's traffic laws by (here the constable fills in the nature of the offence.) Please watch this during the remainder of your stay in this city. We hope you have a nice time."

Some members of the group thought this a splendid idea, and suggested Victoria do the same thing.

H. A. Beckwith pointed out, however, that traffic regulations were made for reasons of public safety and welfare, and considered it would not help the city's traffic problems if tourists were allowed to break them.

He asked members to think of the consequences if tourists were allowed to overpark, to make left-hand turns on Douglas Street and to leave their cars near fire hydrants.

Mr. Taylor, who supported the courtesy card idea, disagreed with Mr. Beckwith. He claimed tourists would not abuse such a courtesy extended them.

The majority of members felt the matter could stand some looking into and as a result a committee of three was appointed to find the views of the city police commission on the matter.

Club May Sponsor Program Of Safety

The Victoria Rotary Club is considering the sponsorship of a traffic safety program to Greater Victoria motorists, it was learned at a Chamber of Commerce meeting Tuesday afternoon.

It is understood all service clubs in the city would be asked to participate in putting the program across to the general public. Reason for the move is the recent number of traffic fatalities in the area.

Discuss Plans For Institute

NANAIMO—Preliminary plans for the setting up of a Labor Union Institute at Nanaimo on March 5 and 6, were discussed by representatives of all C.C.L. affiliated unions on Vancouver Island, including a delegation from Ladysmith, at a meeting here.

The institute, second of its kind to be set up west of Winnipeg, will cover a wide range of subjects for study, ranging from activities of job stewards, union finance and structure to trade union history. Instructors will include officials from the Canadian Congress of Labor.

SOOKE CHAMBER MEETS

SOOKE—Sooke-Jordan River Chamber of Commerce will meet in Shirley Community Hall, Friday night at 8 with A. F. Brownsey presiding.

Cold Snap Affects Water Supply, Roads

PORT ALBERNI—Ald. Vincent Rush, chairman of the city's fire, light and water committee, warned here Monday, that the cold spell has placed the city in a serious situation with regard to water supply.

He said that unless citizens cease leaving taps running to prevent freezing, there is danger that there will be no prsseure, should a serious fire occur. The reservoir has been depleted to a low point, he added.

Another effect of the cold snap may be the closing of all Port Alberni's black-topped streets after the cold lets up, according to Mayor L. K. Jordan. He said frost had penetrated about 14 inches and in coming out, the streets might heave. It was known, however, he added, that if was kept off it, the black-top would settle back to its original position without breaking.

Bird life on the Alberni Canal has suffered, too, for according to Pitt Clayton, proprietor of Port Boat House, grebes in large numbers have been trapped in the ice and seagulls injured when they attempt to land on what they think is water and find to be ice.

Attlee Greeted With Cries For Mosley

LONDON (Reuter)—Shouts of "We Want Mosley" greeted Prime Minister Attlee Tuesday night when he made his first speech in the East London constituency of West Walthamstow, which he will contest at the next election.

Toward the end of the meeting there was a scuffle in the hall and the chairman shouted: "There are a few Fascists here. We have had a war to stop your kind." Sir Oswald Mosley, again active politically, was prewar British Fascist leader.

LAY DREDGE PIPELINE—A section of the pipeline which will carry away debris from Victoria's Inner Harbor when the long-delayed dredging project in the harbor begins shortly. The pipeline will be connected to the dredge from the south side of Johnson Street Bridge and then carried under the bridge and across the Department of Transport property on the north side, as shown here, to a small bay, bounded on one side by Point Hope. As the Inner Harbor floor is cleared of the debris from last year's blasting, the material will be pumped through the line to make a fill in the bay.

Wednesday Closing By-Law Labelled Tourist Hardship

Victoria's Wednesday half-day closing by-law came up for criticism at a meeting Tuesday afternoon of the Chamber of Commerce tourist trade group.

The whole subject of store closing was brought before the meeting in a letter from Mrs. Elizabeth Davidson, 220 Michigan Street. The letter had been forwarded to the tourist trade group from the City Council to which it had originally been directed.

"One of the things that is unpopular with visitors is the closing of shops for staff vacations," Mrs. Davidson's letter said. "This in itself indicates a distinct lack of business acumen and puts the stamp of a small town upon a growing city."

"The tourist dollar should not be turned away by a closed door," the letter stated.

Ald. Frank Mulliner suggested that a committee be appointed to call on store owners who close down completely each year while their staff takes a holiday.

Walter Miles, president of the chamber, said this suggestion might be carried out but noted there was no way in which store owners could be forced to remain open if they did not wish.

"We can't really do anything about it since this is a democratic and free country where the shopkeepers do what they like," he said.

"Is this a democratic country when the law makes you close up whether you want to or not on a Wednesday afternoon?" Kelly Porter, proprietor of a city novelty shop, inquired.

"That's a hot subject in Victoria," Geoff Edgelow, chairman of the group, observed. "It's certainly been a sore spot with the tourists."

Ald. Mulliner said the Wednesday afternoon closing by-law had been introduced at the request of a vast majority of store owners and retail clerks.

Mr. Miles said it affected a lot of tourists.

He pointed out that a lot of Americans come to this city for one day only. Those that pick Wednesday for their visit are usually disappointed, particularly the women.

As a means of getting around the problem while, at the same time, guaranteeing store employees a half-holiday during their work-week, Mr. Miles suggested stores here should remain open every week-day, but should let members of their staffs off one afternoon a week on a shift basis.

"Some members could still get Wednesday afternoons off and others could take Thursday afternoons," he said.

At the suggestion of the group chairman, the meeting decided they should turn this problem of store closing over to the chamber's retail merchants' section for further study.

Dr. K. O. Wright, of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, will address a meeting of the Victoria Centre, Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, to be held tonight in the auditorium of Victoria College at 8. His topic will be "Giant and Dwarf Stars."

B.C. Bulb Growers Hold Meeting Here

Annual general meeting of the B.C. Bulb Growers' Federation will be held here Friday and Saturday.

Business sessions will be held Friday at Lougheed's Hall.

Delegates will register Saturday between 9 and 10 at the Duke of York Room, Empress Hotel, after which educational sessions will start.

There will be lectures and films on various phases of the bulb growing industry.

Emphasis will be placed on study of control of the narcissus fly which is menacing the bulb growing industry. Reports on progress being made in Washington and Oregon on controlling bulb diseases will be given by H. Andison and R. (Bob) Hastings.

Among other speakers will be H. Edmundson, prominent grower from Puyallup, Wash.

Proposed formation of a central selling agency by the federation will be discussed at length during the conference.

Forests Linked With National Security

FREDERICTON (CP)—Dr. H. L. Keenleyside, Deputy Minister of Mines and Resources, Tuesday night termed national security an important reason for close and active co-operation between governments and industry in the protection and development of Canada's forest resources.

Addressing the annual banquet of the Maritime section of the Canadian Society of Forest Engineers, Dr. Keenleyside said an important feature of forest industries was that they required little or no conversion from a peacetime to wartime basis.

R.N.'s Aid Memorial Fund Also Assist Office Nurses

"Victoria branch of the Registered Nurses' Association contributed more than a third of the total for British Columbia of the Canadian Nurses' Memorial Fund during the past year," president Mrs. Betty MacKinnon told members at their annual meeting held in the lounge at the Nurses' Home, Royal Jubilee Hospital, Royal Jubilee Hospital, Tuesday evening.

In her closing address, Mrs. MacKinnon stressed the need for members to work together.

"In the last 10 years nursing has changed so greatly—boundaries have widened and opportunities increased. If we are to further this advance we must work as a unit. It is necessary that we continue as a whole if we are to assist one another with working problems and plan wisely for the future good of the profession," she concluded.

A complete report was made to members on the year's activities by recording secretary Miss J. Purves.

For the afternoon ceremony performed by Rev. A. K. McMinn, the bride, given in marriage by her father, was charming in a gown of traditional white satin. A sweetheart neckline and long pointed sleeves distinguished the beaded bodice, and she wore a fingertip veil, caught to her hair by a coronet of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was composed of pink carnations and white chrysanthemums.

Bridesmaid Donna Posey was gowned in blue net posed over taffeta. Her short veil was crowned with coronet of flowers and she wore matching blue gloves. Yellow and white baby chrysanthemums were in her bouquet.

Little Carolyn Scott, frocked in pink sheer, was a dainty flower maid for her sister. She carried a colonial posy of yellow and white chrysanthemums.

Thomas Scott, brother of the bride, was best man. Wedding music was played by H. Vine and while the register was signed, F. Aldridge sang "Always."

For her daughter's marriage, Mrs. Scott chose a wine sequin-trimmed gown and corsage bouquet of pink carnations.

Lily Of Valley Patterns Organdy In Bridal Ensemble

Sheer French organdy patterned with lily of the valley in velvet chenille fashioned the full-length bridal gown worn by Miss Dolores Rose-Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford E. Brown, when she became the bride of Hugh John Thomson, second son of William Thomson.

Their marriage was solemnized Friday at Metropolitan United Church, by Rev. A. E. Whitehouse.

Repeating the lily of the valley theme of her lovely gown, the bride, escorted by her father, chose a crown of matching blossoms to hold her full veil. Her bouquet was of scarlet rosebuds.

The petal pink gown worn by honor maid Miss Isabel Lund set the color note for the fragrant bouquet of pink carnations and white chrysanthemums.

A similar bouquet was carried by bridesmaid, Miss Patricia Matthews, whose floor-length gown was in soft turquoise.

Flower girl for her sister, Miss Francis Brown was frocked in pink satin, to match her bouquet of carnations.

William Thomson assisted his brother as best man, and William A. Walker and Owen T. Redman ushered guests to their seats.

A reception was held in Terry's dining room. William Thomson proposed the toast to the bride's future happiness. The bride and grpom cut their decorated wedding cake, and guests enjoyed supper.

When the couple left on their honeymoon, the bride donned a smart brown suit with deeper toned accessories, and pink carnations en corsage.

Victoria Presbytery, Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society, Friday, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church lecture room at 2.30. All secretaries to bring reports.

Petal Silhouette Chosen By Designer

NEW YORK (AP) — Woman should bloom like flowers this spring, says designer Pauline Trigere, with petals unfolding softly above the waist in the form of brief flaring capelets, soft sleeves, drapery about the bust. And the skirt is the stem of the flower.

Such is the theme of her 1949 collection, shown yesterday to some 125 visiting fashion editors. Interest is for the most part strictly above the belt. Skirts are pencil-slim or slightly flared and lines are softly, subtly rounded.

There is no hint of the exaggeration of two seasons ago, when women were faced with the frightening "new look" and wondered if they really would have to pad their hips to be in fashion. The clothes this spring are slim, graceful and functional, yet manage to be strictly feminine in detail and silhouette.

One of the highlights of Trigere's collection is the "mantelet," another version of the brief cape-back jacket which is seen in almost every collection. She shows it in various ways, one of the most effective being in smooth white doeskin over a navy faille dress.

The "renaissance sleeve" is another important note in the Trigere collection. This is a sleeve with soft drapery from deep armhold to elbow, tightly fitted from elbow to wrist. It gives the softness above the belt that is a theme of the spring showing.

Black silk braid trim is seen on a number of suits and coats in white or natural tones, also accented by black bone buttons.

Suits for the Easter parade as shown by Trigere have tight, slim skirts, split and buttoned at the side.

Women At Work

MRS. JEAN SMITH

A familiar figure in many downtown establishments is the neat little woman in crisp white uniform, who slips quietly into an office about twice a month, opens a well-packed brown case and goes to work at cleaning and disinfecting the telephones.

She is Mrs. Jean Smith, housewife and mother, who, through her active interest in people and things, has discovered a business occupation that enables her to keep in touch with bustling life of the city.

It was an advertisement that started this bright-eyed woman in her present occupation.

Offering part-time work, washing telephones.

Her curiosity aroused, Mrs. Smith made inquiries about the work. It sounded "rather interesting" she tells you. So, she decided to try it for a few months.

Those months stretched into a year and a half, and finally into a position where Mrs. Smith decided to buy out her employers and take over the full rights for the telephone cleaning service in Victoria and on Vancouver Island.

To most women this would be a full-time occupation. But with Mrs. Smith it is merely a means to an end.

For, in spite of, or perhaps because of her busy days and the many contacts with people, she has the ambition to write—not for the newspapers—but short stories "about people and things."

"There is so much of interest," she tells you, her merry brown eyes twinkling. The smile that invites confidence flashes as she adds. "In this work you run across romance and sorrow and you see many things that are real life stories.

"And I also have small grandchildren. They are a never-ending source of material, you know."

A look of determination overshadowed the smile, "I'm attending night school classes," she said, "and some day I'm going to really write good stories."

Attending night school classes, housekeeping and even her telephones cleaning business still doesn't quite fill Mrs. Smith's busy day.

She has extra-circular duties that include knitting for the Red Cross, acting as secretary of a Little Helpers group in her church and active embership in the Mabel Burnett Circle.

Lighter Shades In Shoes For Spring

TORONTO (CP)—Light shades of leather in trim, narrower-last shoes feature the spring style show for women presented by the Canadian Footwear Industry now holding its annual convention in Toronto.

Fine suedes, calfskins and reptiles, many with metallic trim, feature the showing of dress shoes while metallic copper kid and patent leather, harmonizing with spring colors in clothing are also shown.

For informal and play shoes smooth leathers such as calf and kid suede are used as materials and in low-heeled shoes the tapered toe gives way to squared toes.

Seek More Hours Free Of Worries

Seek more hours for yourself during the New Year which are free of pressure.

As we grow older, the need to relax becomes increasingly more important. There is a need to relax both mind and muscles.

So, count as triumphs every hour that you can spend freed of vexations. You can dismiss niggling worries by pushing them out of your mind for an hour. Even the woman who is hounded by the problems of never making ends meet can take "French leave" for an hour every now and then from her household worries. If there is no other way of escape, she can bury herself in a fascinating book or seek oblivion in an absorbing movie.

Don't forget, while plotting ways to relieve tensions, how quickly mental and physical relaxation can be gained from a long hike or a whirl at your favorite winter sport.

Don't overlook the value of a super-relaxing facial in which many beauty shops specialize. In the hush-hush atmosphere of a softly lighted room in which your comfort is catered to and where the creamed hands of a beauty-shop specialist induce you to relax, you can spend a blissful hour freed of pressure that so often assails the busy woman at home.

Reverse Combing Thickens Hair

If you find that your hair isn't as thick as it used to be, try combing it in reverse when you dress it.

That's another way of telling you to "tease" or "rat" your hair, a trick which top-notcher hairdressers use without any qualms. They claim no harm is done to "ratted" hair. The tangles are brushed gently out.

Any section of hair may be "ratted" at back, front or sides. Sometimes a woman needs to thicken her hair all around in order to puff out skimpy contours. Faulty head contours can also be masked by the simple trick of thickening the hair to fill out flat areas.

If hair is slippery or sleazy, particularly after it is freshened up by a shampoo, reverse-combing will usually give it more "body" and will help to keep it better anchored to the head.

When a permanent is so far gone that curls refuse to take shape, this problem can also be solved by gently "teasing" each curl from the inside when wispy locks are being dressed.

Personal Gift Repays Hostess

There are ways to repay hospitality to people who have invited you to their homes other than inviting them to yours.

This will answer the question of a young career girl who writes to say: "I live in a rented room so small that it is impossible to invite people to partake of the simplest hospitality. Shouldn't I decline party invitations which I cannot return?"

As we have said to this reader, and now say to others, a guest can accept one kind of favor and return another. If you are faced with a similar problem, you can send the hostess whose party invitations you have accepted, a bouquet of flowers or a pretty personal gift. A note, expressing your appreciation of the hospitality, should accompany the gift.

The girl who doesn't live at home and who accepts dinner invitations can always, of course, pay off her indebtedness by inviting her friends to dine with her at a restaurant. It is not, however, necessary to repay hospitality in kind. As hospitable a gesture would be to send a dinner host and hostess a pair of theatre tickets or to invite them to attend a concert or movie with you.

Rising Tendencies Squelched

NEW YORK (AP) — Supply and demand were just about a stand-off in a slow-moving stock market today.

Few issues strayed more than fractionally from the previous close.

Business dragged along in line with recent dawdling trade.

Rising tendencies cropped out now and then during the day but the mildest of selling pressure was enough to squelch them.

Close Estimate On Meter Revenue

City officials were only $1,538 short in their estimate a year ago of revenue from parking meters in 1948.

They predicted the city's share of collections from the meters would be $25,000. Actually it is $23,462.06.

The $23,462.06 is half of what the meters yielded . . . $46,924.13. The other half goes to the company from which the meters are being purchased.

It is expected the curb machines will be paid for by the end of next year.

It cost $9,300 to maintain and service the 785 meters in operation.

A variety of coins, washers, tax tokens and slot machine slugs were taken from the meters during the year . . . 4,554 in all. They included an Indian rupee.

Rain Ends Drought In South Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (CP)—Rain fell in many areas of South Africa Tuesday night, indicating an end of the drought which has gripped part of the country for months.

But the possibility remains of a serious food shortage during the year.

Nineteen areas of the Orange Free State and 33 areas of Cape Province were declared drought-stricken by the end of December. Corn crops in the Transvaal high veld and western Transvaal have been hard hit by the drought and it is unlikely immediate rain would be in time to help the parched crops.

Some corn-growing areas of the Orange Free State have been without rain since March or April of last year. The native population, which is particularly dependent on corn, is threatened with a serious food shortage.

Profit-Taking Cuts Into Golds

TORONTO (CP)—Golds dipped downwards in active trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Industrials held firm for most of the session but dipped towards the close. Base metals continued yesterday's firmness and western oils moved quietly on an easier tone.

Profit-taking cut into the golds after two successive days of strong advance.

Toronto averages:

20 industrials	181.68, off	.06
20 golds	98.79, off	.83
10 base metal	109.82, up	1.23
15 western oils	55.63, off	.36

Total sales, 1,802,000.

Grain

WINNIPEG (CP)—Fair shipper buying came out in oats and barely futures in early trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange Wednesday with some indication of purchases by export house. Fair selling attributed to American account appeared in oats.

Commission house offerings increased later in the session when Chicago grain prices showed an easier tone.

Rye was being sold by commission houses in response to weaknesses in American rye.

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain market backed and filled without getting anywhere on the board of trade Wednesday. Feature of the day's dealings was the comparative steadiness of wheat and easiness of soybeans.

Wheat led an attempt at an early rally, getting up nearly a cent at one time. Selling then hit soybeans spreading to all pits. Everything dropped below the previous close. After that, wheat again led a timid rally.

The butter shipment will be unloaded on the mainland.

Sockeye Threatened By Power Projects

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—Hydro-electric power projects planned on British Columbia lakes and river threatened destruction of the provinces $35,000,000 sockkeye salmon industry.

Officials of the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission told the New Westminster Board of Trade Monday the development is planned by industrialists in eastern Canada and Britain.

B. M. Brennan, commission chairman, said the hydro promoters may try to complete the projects before the public is aware of the danger. He urged a sensible plan of development which would not affect the sockeye industry.

Inner Harbor Dredge Due Thursday, At Work Monday

The dredge for Victoria's Inner Harbor is due here early Thursday and will be in operation by Monday, it was learned today.

The dredge, owned by B.C. Bridge and Dredging Co. Ltd., was to have left for Victoria early this morning but was delayed by ice on the Fraser River where it has been employed for repair work on damage caused by the Fraser River Valley flood in the spring of 1948.

On arrival here, the dredge will be taken to Yarrows Ltd. for dry-docking, cleaning and painting and is expected to be ready for work by Monday.

The dredge will lower the floor of Victoria's Inner Harbor and clear away debris left by blasting operations carried out in the harbor last year.

Fisheries Minister R. W. Mayhew a short time ago announced impending arrival of the dredge. At that time he said officials of the C.P.R.'s B.C. Coast Steamship Service had made representations urging early arrival of the dredge to clear the harbor floor which was impeding manoeuvres of the coastal steamships moving in and out of the harbor.

Aquatic Melodrama On Atlas Screen

Said to be one of the most unusual of all Tarzan films, Sol Lesser's "Tarzan and the Mermaids," currently at the Atlas Theatre, revolves around Edgar Rice Burroughs' famous ape-man's adventures with a tribe of aquatic natives on the African coast. In trying to assist a pretty native girl to escape a loveless marriage, Tarzan finds himself involved not only with husky opponents in underwater fights but with a far more sinister white ruler of the tribe, passing as a god. Johnny Weissmuller and Brenda Joyce are again starred and Linda Christian is featured.

ODEON THEATRE

John Wayne, whose name for years has become synonymous with vital "he-man" screen characters, plays the greatest role of his career as the cattle baron, Tom Dunson, in Howard Hawks' production, "Red River," now being shown at the Odeon Theatre. This is a spectacular Western which, in scope and drama, takes place alongside such cinema classics as "Cimarron" and "The Covered Wagon." Co-starring with Wayne in the picture are Montgomery Clift, Joanne Dru and Walter Brennan.

YORK THEATRE

During the course of his 42 years in show business, Walter Huston has probably turned in many more unforgettable stage and screen performances than any other actor extant. Currently, the veteran Thespian is being acclaimed for his all-surpassing portrayal as Gene Tierney's stern and stubborn, Bible-quoting father in "Dragonwyck," 20th Century-Fox filmization of the famed Anya Seton best-seller presented by Darryl F. Zanuck, and currently at the York Theatre.

Cabaret Owners To Ask Public Support

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fifty thousand British Columbians will be asked to endorse sale of liquor by the glass before the B.C. Cabaret Owners' Association meets the cabinet in Victoria late this month Sidney Bowles, president of the association, said Tuesday.

He said a petition will be distributed among cafes in Vancouver, New Westminster and Victoria and customers will be asked to sign.

ROYAL THEATRE

"Julia Misbehaves," currently at the Royal Thearte co-starring Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon for the fifth time, and also marks the first all-out comedy role in Miss Garson's screen career. The story is taken from the best-seller "The Nutmeg Tree," and centres about a London music hall girl who crashes high society with a number of unusual, and hilarious, adventures.

Irene Dunne co-stars with Barbara Bel Geddes, Oscar Homolka and Philip Dorn in the George Stevens production presented by Dore Schary and directed by Stevens.

City 'Teen-Agers Need Foster Homes

The Family Welfare and Children's Aid Society today issued a plea for foster homes.

The society must find homes for an average of 10 teenagers per month.

Board of the young people is paid by the society, which is an agency of the Greater Victoria Community Chest. Officials ask anyone who can give understanding and care to a child in need to contact them at 1234 Pandora Avenue.

They said the children must have good homes if they are to acquire a sense of security, and develop initiative and self-reliance to become well-adjusted members of the community.

Aggressive Policy Against Communism For Canada

An aggressive policy against Communism including a firm stand against Communists at home, mobilization of armed forces, strengthening defences, a return to bi-partisan foreign policy, association with other democracy-loving nations for mutual preservation and strengthening of commonwealth defences was urged here Tuesday by John Diefenbaker.

Mr. Diefenbaker, member of parliament for Lake Centre, Sask., and defeated contender for the Progressive Conservative national leadership last October, outlined his six-point policy against Communism in an address before the Kiwanis and Canadian Clubs at the Empress Hotel.

"Canada must associate herself in the Western Union and join with the United States and the five countries in Europe in a pact for mutual perservation," he said ". . . . To accept this position Canada's responsibilities will not be discharged by limiting her liability to pious declarations against communism. Their must be a unity of the Canadian people in foreign relations."

Mr. Diefenbaker said there should be representation of all major political parties at international conferences and if this were not done Parliament "may well become a place of controversy on foreign affairs and history may record that because Parliament would only talk the Russian bear was free to walk."

COST HEAVY

He warned, however, that to discharge Canada's responsibilities will require heavy expenditures and the mobilization of many thousands more men than are now in the armed forces.

Canada canot act tough and talk tough in international bodies and talk or practice isolationism unless her defences are strengthened, he said.

"It is too late to complain about the withdrawal of Canadian forces in occupied Germany but even at this late date I feel that a participation in the Berlin air lift would be of moral advantake and would give a lift to the spirit of resistance to the British peoples everywhere and to the people of the United States," he said.

"Within the United Nations organizations I believe that measures should be taken for the establishment of a commonwealth defence plan in co-operation with the United States so that this commonwealth will remain in the future as in the past strong to protect, fearless to uphold and steadfast to oppose," he continued.

At the same time, he said, Canada must strengthen her own democracy.

"We must assure that the title of Canadian means true citizenship and service, granting as it does to us the heritage of freedom," he said. "We must deny within our own country sectionalism and class consciousness. We must assure harmonious adjustments of race and creed. We must learn to practice tolerance . . . ."

Mr. Diefenbaker noted that Canada's nearest neighbors were the United States and the U.S.S.R.

POLICY OF ACTION

"Canada's foreign policy must not be one of colorless imitation," he said. "It must be one of action now for the Canadian people are unwilling to envisage another world conflict without knowing that Canada has done her utmost to prevent it."

He said that the hopes of mankind of not four years ago when the United Nations was born have been dissipated by frustration and fear.

"The U.S.S.R. stands aloof from all international organizations dealing with world problems, Unrra, refugees, monetary matters, international civil aviation and Unesco," he said. "She has put every obstacle against the humanitarian Marshill plan because it does not restrict its beneficience to the faithful and the politically fit. She refuses to allow peace treaties with Germany and Japan to be concluded. She has many hundreds of thousands of German prisoners in custody. Her slave camps are occupied by the millions. The only international proposals that she will accept are the ones she advances. She refuses to have anything to do with the International Bill of Rights which recently came before the assembly. . . . ."

The veto has been used 26 times by Russia and it use has emasculated the United Nations organization, he added.

"What does all this mean?" he asked. "It means that Russia's aim is world-wide communism. . . .

"What can Canada do?

"Canada has accepted international responsibilities. . . . . Canada canpot underwrite her world responsibilities conditionally or partially."

Ice May Threaten Fraser Navigation

VANCOUVER (CP)—Ice may be seriously threatening navigation along the Fraser River.

Shipping officials here fear that although facilities at both Vancouver and New Westminster are still open, heavy formations farther up the river will halt all navigation unless the unusually long cold spell breaks.

Pilots say that steel-hulled freighters will be able to move in the river but that lighter craft and wooden vessels face danger from floating ice.

Port officials at New Westminster are keeping close watch on the situation. Small, steel-hulled tugs are being used to prevent ice piling up around bridge piers and to keep log booming grounds clear.

W.I.L. Adopts Playoffs; Spokane Unsettled

Reversing their stand of previous years, directors of the Western International Baseball League at their winter meeting in Spokane yesterday adopted a Shaughnessy post-season playoff plan. The semifinal series will be best two out of three affairs with the first and third place clubs meeting and the second and fourth place teams battling for a spot in the finals. The winners will then fight it out in a best-of-five game affair.

The W.I.L. playoff will be the same that holds forth in the Coast League. Previously the directors had opposed any playoff plan, majority of them claiming post-season games would not be a financial success. The Victoria Athletics have always favored playoffs.

The team finishing in first place in the regular schedule will receive $2,000 as will the winner of the playoff. The runner-up in the playoff will draw down $1,000 with $750 to go to each of the teams beaten in the semi-finals.

The 1949 schedule calls for the Athletics to open the season at home on April 21 against Yakima and close out at home on Labor Day against Bremerton.

Directors tried in vain yesterday to settle the confused situation of the Spokane team.

FINANCIAL TANGLE

The Spokane club, which won the league pennant last season, has no home field and virtually no players in sight. It does have a financial tangle of large proportions, however.

Co-owners J. Lamar Butler and Buddy Ryan have been trying to collect $250,000 worth of insurance on the ball park, which burned shortly after the end of last season. Ryan also intends to dissolve his partnership with Butler, and he has said he will sell his share if Butler continues his refusal to sell.

Butler has announced plans to build a steel and concrete grandstand to be ready for next season.

Yesterday, Sam Collins, the former owner of the team, said Butler and Ryan owe him $26,000 on the club. He said he wants the money by Monday or he will demand that the franchise be returned to him.

The league itself, loop president Bob Abel has said, is willing to run the team for a while because Spokane's strong attendance figures heavily in the league's finances.

Despite the uncertainty of the Spokane's position, full participation of a team from here is to be included in making up next season's schedule.

Additional league directors' meetings seem assured before the Spokane problem can be solved.

Seattle Club Trades O'Neill For Ardizoia

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The Hollywood Stars Tuesday traded right-handed Pitcher Rugger Ardizoia, 29, to the Seattle Rainiers for shortstop John O'Neill, 28.

Manager Fred Haney said the straight trade deal was a move to strengthen the Stars' infield. O'Neill, known as an infield pepperpot, hit .242 for Seattle last season. Ardizoia won 13 and lost 11 for the Stars.

New Westminster Senior B Hockey In Sorry Condition

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—New Westminster Cubs of the British Columbia Senior B Hockey League today met with another snag in their move to gain support from New Westminster fans.

Management of Queen's Park Arena threatened to deprive the Cubs of ice for their regular Thursday night games unless a $50 guarantee is posted.

The move came as a result of poor support of New Westminster's senior B team. It was reported the arena collected a total of 46 cents one night and 25 cents another time. Arena officials said it is impossible to meet all expenses with such little revenue.

Scotty Milne, Cubs' coach, said "I'm getting fed up with the whole set-up."

"I think next year I'll get out of the league," he said, "and work along with midgets and juniors."

If Cubs and arena officials fail to reach an agreement, it is believed the New Westminster squad will finish the season at the Vancouver Forum.

LONDON (AP)—Britain will not send a hockey team to the world championships in Stockholm Feb. 12-20.

J. F. Aherne, secretary of the British Ice Hockey Association, said Britain lacks amateur talent of the quality necessary.

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

AMONG the busiest spots in Victoria, Monday, were the sporting goods stores where people young and old were either being outfitted in new skates and boots or having the old blades sharpened up. Walking into one well-known establishment I was amazed at the hectice scene. Three employees had a haggard look on their faces and failed to greet me with their usual cheery welcome. "I'm just beat," one remarked, "but you have to take advantage of this surprise business while it lasts.'" He then informed me his firm had been forced to turn down a lot of sharpening jobs. "Just take a look at the pile over there and you'll know the reason why, when you realize every pair has to be out by 5 this afternoon."

ENTHUSIASM of Victorians for skating is the best evidence that the city's new Memorial Arena will be well patronized when it finally opens. As a matter of fact a number of people buying new outfits during the current cold spell have done so with the feeling they will eventually put them to good use when indoor skating again becomes available. Meanwhile, the sporting goods dealers are enjoying an unexpected sales boom. One dealer made a hurried trip to Vancouver Monday night in an effort to replenish his exhausted stock.

HAD a telephone call from Bill Bridgewood Monday night. Seems that Bill had the bright idea of promoting a hockey game on Goodacre Lake at Beacon Hill Park. "There are a lot of good hockey players around town right now and we could put on an interesting exhibition," Bridgewood said. "I am sure such a game would attract a good crowd and we could take up a collection for the May 24 celebration fund." Need I point out that Bridgewood is a member of the celebration committee and is always looking for ways to swell the coffers of the group.

UNLESS there's a sudden thaw and the weatherman is not too hopeful the chances of playing the McKechnie Cup rugby match here Saturday are not good. Officials are going ahead with plans for the Crimson Tide-Varsity engagement and keeping their fingers crossed. Pitch at Macdonald Park right now feels like a stretch of concrete and it will take at least a couple of days of really mild weather to permit the frost to come out of the ground. And there's still no word on when the Coast League football squads hope to resume play. Meanwhile, Victoria and mainland clubs are attempting to keep their players in condition with indoor workouts.

Patched-Up Canucks Open Rough Schedule

A long, hard grind starts for Dick Irvin's patched up Canadiens tonight when they clash with the rugged—but inconsistent—Bruins in Boston while Lynn Patrick's New York Rangers play hosts to the Detroit Red Wings, leaders of the National Hockey League.

For Les Habitants, plagued by an injury list as long as your arm, the game marks a stretch during which they'll see action 14 times in 28 days. They return here Saturday for a tussle with Chicago Black Hawks and from then on will get little in the way of rest until Feb. 9.

Coach Dick Irvin dug again into the minors for tonight's game after it became known defenceman Doug Harvey would not be able to play. Roger Leger was recalled from Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League. Already up from the minors are Tod Campeau and Leo Gravelle.

Bud McPherson, borrowed from Edmonton Flyers of the Western Canada League as replacement for Harvey, left for home by plane last night after completing a three-game engagement under the big top. That's all he is allowed under pro-amateur lend-lease agreement.

RIOPELLE OUT

The Canadiens also left forward Rip Riopelle at home on their Boston jaunt. He is nursing a knee injury. Still sidelined, but out for light skating workouts yesterday, were the team's big guns, defenceman Butch Bouchard and Elmer Lach. Bouchard is not expected back in uniform until another two weeks while Lach will be out until Feb. 1 at least.

The Chi-Hawks were the only N.H.L. club to get into action last night. In an exhibition game in Ottawa before 4,000 customers, the Hawks romped to an easy 11 to 7 victory over Ottawa Senators of the Quebec Senior Hockey League.

Roy Conacher, now tied with veteran Doug Bentley for the lead in the N.H.L.'s scoring race, rapped in four goals as the Hawks built up a 9 to 3 lead in the first two periods. Bentley, Bep Guidolin, Adam Brown, Bernie Dickens, Bill Gadsby, Red Hamill and Doug McCaig got the others.

$4,000,000 Beating; Reason: No Snow

BOSTON (AP) — Winter sports, a multi-million dollar business in New England, is taking more than a $4,000,000 licking. The reason: no snow.

While snow piles up in California, the 1,500 miles of ski trails that furrow down New England's hillsides are bare.

About 700 cozy hostelries, their larders bulging, wait patiently for the snowman's arrival. All ski tournaments have been postponed.

Flying 'Y' Juniors Seek Third P.N.W. Swim Title Saturday

As a result of the graduation to senior ranks of two of their stalwarts, Eric Jubb and Doug Stewart, the Flying "Y" junior club team will be decidedly weaker than the squad which captured the Pacific Northwest junior championships in Seattle for the past two consecutive years when they attempt to lift the title for the third time in Seattle Saturday.

Personnel of Archie McKinnon's club this year will probably include seven members. Bill Patey has been named team captain, and the other six will be chosen from Bob Abbott, Bob Clarke, Stan Powell, Barry Caviness, Art Inglis, Ray Jubb, Buzz Jacklin and Bruce Baird.

Favored to capture the meet is either the highly-touted Ocean Falls club or the Multonamach Athletic Club from Portland. Allan Gilchrist and Jim Portelance, two of Canada's top junior aquatic stars perform for the former team, while the Portlanders are reputed to have an even stronger squad than last year's which finished second to the local "Y."

McKinnon's proteges are set to compete in tentative galas against the University of Washington freshmen late this month and the U.B.C. club in February. Washington Athletic Club has invited the locals to participate in a gala at Seattle, Feb. 20.

Basketball Clinic Opens Friday Night

Eight-week basketball clinic is slated to open at the Victoria High School Friday night and 123 applications from youngsters all over the city have been filed to date.

Conducted by Art Chapman, the clinic is designed to teach basketball fundamentals and physical fitness. Besides Chapman, other instructors include Bert Davies, Vic Dale and Tommy Forbes.

Three age groups are 12 to 14, 15 to 17 and 18 to 20. Clinic will operate between 5 and 8 in the evening. Entries close tomorrow.

Tide-Varsity Set For Rugby Clash Saturday

When the blue-and-gold clad University of British Columbia Thunderbirds trot onto Macdonald Park turf Saturday to meet Victoria's Crimson Tide in the second McKechnie Cup game of the season, it will be practically the same team that has swept everything on the Pacific Coast, as far as rugby is concerned, for the past three years.

The 'Birds on their first McKechnie Cup game this season, will have one psychological disadvantage. It was on the same field last year that they suffered their lone defeat at the hands of a Canadian team when the Tide handed them a 7 to 6 McKechnie Cup setback.

On paper, the students have a decided edge over the local fifteen. The pack is a little heavier, the backfield more experienced.

An indication of just how strong Albert Laithwaite's squad is can be seen from the fact that triple-threat football star, Doug Reid, will be only a spare—and Reid has been a mainstay on the U.B.C.'s rugger team for the past three seasons.

VICTORIA BOYS

Two Victorians will appear for the Point Grey crew—Rangy Ron Grant, a forward who never seems to give up and puts plenty of spark into the front-wall attack, and Russ Latham, rated as one of the fastest and best broken-field runners in B.C. rugby.

Big Bill Dunbar will be at the fullback slot. At wing-three-quarter positions are speedy Jack Armour and Hillary Wotherspoon. The latter will do most of the kicking for Varsity.

Other backfielders, all with plenty of speed, are Stan Clarke, at inside three; Frank Watt, stand-off half, and John Tennant, scrum half.

Alex Carlyle, who is almost becoming legendary in mainland rugby, is hook, flanked by scrappy Hartt Crosby and Les Hempsall.

Gerard Kirby and Marshall Smith, each well over the six-foot and 200-pound mark, will be second row men, with Grant, Geoff Corry and Eric Cardinall in the third rank.

Reid, Dave Story and Chuck Flavelle will be spares.

TIDE LINE-UP

With one point salted away thanks to an 8-8 sawoff with Vancouver Lions Dec. 27, Crimson Tide line-up will be bolstered with some experienced McKechnie Cup players in an effort to gain a sizeable margin in the six-game series.

Derek Hyde-Ley, former English star who played with Vancouver Rowing Club and Vancouver Lions last year, but who is now an instructor at Shawnigan Lake School, and John Hicks have been added to the backfield.

Two Navy break-forwards, Dick Carley and Geoff Hilliard, are the switches in the scrum.

Others in the pack include Bob Dunlop, tailup, Bert Collinson, hook, Cec Smith and Scott Kerr, the other front rank men, and Albie Williams and Ian Turner, second row.

Bal Skillings will again appear in the scrum-half position, and Gerry Main at stand-off half. Brian Bell-Irving, who played an outstanding game in the Boxing Day tilt here, will be a centre-three with Hyde-Ley. Hicks and John Campbell will be on the wings.

Frank Watson will be fullback.

Spares are: Bud Lott, just back from U.B.C. for five months study in the city, John Olson, Ron Alexander and Harry Olsen.

Feature game will start at 2.30 with an exhibition game between Victoria College and U.B.C. Frosh starting at 1.30.

Students, Esquimalt In Important Tilt

The surging Chinese Students in the senior B hoop circuit will go all out for a victory tonight at the expense of the Esquimalt quintette as they are now only two points behind the loop-leading Brentwood Aces and K.V.'s squads.

Game is the feature of a tripleheader, which is slated to get under way at 9, and the Students are confident they can make a three-way tie of the league race. Esquimalt, on the other hand, could tighten the standings considerably with a victory, and it would bolster their hold on the last playoff position, moving them to within two points of the Students.

Preliminaries will see all four intermediate A boy's squads in action. At 7, Eight Aces will tackle the Elks, and an hour later, the two top-place squads, Victoria College and Eatons will equare off in what promises to be an interesting fixture.

Douglas Tire intermediate soccer club will hold a workout at Athletic Park tomorrow night at 7.30.

Field Determined For Final Battle In Nipawin 'Spiel

NIPAWIN, Sask. (CP)—Eyes fixed on four new automobiles, as 12 of the 104 original rinks entered in Nipawin's third annual bonspiel went into action today in the two-group, round-robin series leading to the best-of-three final for the cars.

The last four rinks to qualify were decided last night when play got down to the fours in No. 3 event. They are skipped by Walt Palmer of Aylsham, Sask., Dave Moir of Nipawin, Pete Hume of Flin Flon, Man., and Dave Carr of Love, Sask.

Qualifying earlier in the 'spiel by reaching the fours of Nos. 1 and 2 events, were: Billy Rose of Sedgewick, Alta., and Ab Gowanlock of Dauphin, Man., both former Dominion champions; Bert Robertson of Edmonton; Willard Cleveland of Fairlight, Sask.; Al Derrett of Winnipeg; T. R. Wright of Aylsham, Sask.; Dr. C. E. McKellar of Carlyle, Sask., and Walter Hobbs of Leask, Sask.

Rose captured the No. 1 event title when he walloped Gowanlock 12 to 5; while Derrett last night won the No. 2 competition championship when he defeated Dr. McKellar 12 to 7.

Of the four late rinks qualifying for the car series, only one, Moir, had an easy time, winning 10 to 4 over the highly-rated Bill Cook foursome of Brandon, Man.

AMERICAN BEATEN

Palmer held a one-point margin coming home in his match in the eights with Walter Polski of Virginia, Minn., lone American entry, and settled the contest with his last rock when he knocked out the American's shot rock, and stayed in. Polski missed on his final shot to lose 10 to 8.

Hume stayed ahead of Al Turner of Codette, Sask., to win 9 to 6, while Carr edged J. Burgess of Minnedosa, Man., 8 to 7 in a hard-fought contest.

Earlier in the day, two former car winners here—Howard Wood and Grant Watson, both of Winnipeg—were side-lined in the battle for the cars when they both dropped matches in No. 3 event. Wood lost 10 to 9 to Palmer, while Watson was trounced 12 to 6 by Burgess. Both matches were in the 16s.

Weakened Royals Drop Tilt; Vancouver Wins

The New Westminster Royals wound up their swing through the southern division of the Pacific Coast Hockey League with three wins and two losses—and five men laid up with injuries. Northern division leaders, the Royals dropped a 5 to 2 game to the Fresno Falcons Wednesday night. Ace defence man Babe Pratt and four others were out with injuries.

The Royals beat Oakland, San Francisco and San Diego on their southern visit but lost to Los Angeles and Fresno.

At Vancouver, the hometown Canucks climbed out of the northern division cellar by beating the Tacoma Rockets, 4 to 2. Two goals in the last seven minutes by the Bill Shill-Allen Kuntz-Bill Carse combination did the trick.

Oakland, the southern division leader, lost an overtime game to San Diego's Skyhawks on the Oakland ice. The Hawks tied the count at 3-all with only four seconds left in the regular game, then went on to a 4 to 3 victory with a goal in the final 10 seconds of the overtime period.

McGavin Cup Final Billed Saturday

McGavin Cup soccer final, between Esquimalt and Canadian Legion, has been slated for Athletic Park on Saturday, it was announced today by Reg Clarke, secretary of the Victoria and District Football League. Game time is 2.15.

Esquimalt, first-half league winners, dumped Oak Bay 4 to 1 last week to gain the finals, while Canadian Legion, defending champs, moved into the playoff with a 4 to 0 decision over Wests.

The two eliminated squads, Wests and Bays, will meet in a regular second-half league tussle at Heywood Avenue Sunday, starting at 2.15.

WIN BIKE RACE

CLEVELAND (AP)—A pair of sprint specialists, Cecil Yates of Chicago and Charlie Bergna of Paterson, N.J., closed with a rush last night to win Cleveland's six-day bike race.

It was the same team which placed second the last time the whirl was held here, about a year ago.

OAK BAY SOCCER

A practice session for the Oak Bay intermediate soccer club will be held at Windsor Park tomorrow night at 8. All players are urged to be on hand.

Calgary Stampeders Put Out $75,000 To Get Grid Champs

CALGARY (CP)—The swashbuckling Calgary Football Stampeders won just about everything but a bank account in 1948.

A report on the club's activities last season presented at the annual meeting by president Tom Brook last night said it cost close to $75,000 to bring the Grey Cup to Calgary for the first time in the history of this foothills city.

The report also said:

1. At least three of last year's four imports will be back with Stamps in the 1949 season.

2. Coach Les Lear is prepared to sign a four-year contract as mentor of the Dominion grid champions.

3. Stampeders lost money on their trip east to win the Grey Cup.

Although no financial statement was released, club officials said the 1948 operations resulted in a loss of less than $1,000.

Brook, unanimously re-elected president, branded financial arrangements for the Grey Cup final as "ridiculous."

"We would have shown a substantial surplus except for the tremendous expense of taking the team east for the Grey Cup final," he said. "The allowance given us for that trip and our receipts from the game far from covered the actual cost."

NICE FAT RENTAL

Brook said the low price of $2 tops charged for the Grey Cup final was "ridiculous" when other eastern playoffs got as much as $3. He also criticized payment of $6,200 rental to the University of Toronto for use of Varsity Stadium and the distribution of about 200 complimentary tickets to officials of the Canadian Rugby Union and the University of Toronto.

"Winning the Grey Cup should be a financial plum big enough to carry a club over a couple of lean years. It has been anything but that for us."

Of the four United States imports with the 1948 club that swept undefeated to the western and Canadian titles, officials said quarterback Keith Spaith, end Woody Strode and tackle Johnny Aguirre are definitely returning to the 1949 club.

Only question mark concerned the future plans of big centre Chuck Anderson, the outstanding star in Stamps' victory over Ottawa Roughriders in the Dominion final.

Brook said Coach Les Lear, former Winnipeg Blue Bomber, already has turned down "three juicy offers" from eastern Canada in order to stay in Calgary. He said Lear is all set to sign a four-year contract with the club.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT

Brook said it was doubtful if gate receipts "will ever fully meet the cost of building a top-calibre team." However, he said the 1949 prospects were bright and that an additional 2,400 grandstand seats would be built before next fall.

Brook, Jack Grogan, team-manager Archie McGillis and coach Les Lear were named to attend the annual Western Interprovincial Union meeting in Regina Jan. 23.

Officials said the club will recommend at that meeting that each team in the loop post a guarantee of $5,000 to assure fulfilment of obligations.

In addition to Brook's re-election, J. T. Thomson was named vice-president and J. M. Dillion, secretary.

Boucher Would Give Goalies Protection

NEW YORK (CP) — Frank Boucher says it's time hockey goalies got a break.

The manager of New York Rangers and chairman of the National Hockey League's rules committee wants to change the sport's rules to:

1. Extend the crease from three to four feet in front of the nets.

2. Make it illegal for an attacking player to come inside the crease at any time.

These changes, Boucher said, would lessen possibility of injury to a netminder and provided clear-cut and clean goals for fans.

At the present there is nothing in the rule book that prevents an attacking player from getting on top of a goalie and Boucher says it isn't fair.

"This has become a regular play in hockey. You take one of your big men and stick him in the crease, or close enough to worry the goalie, while a power play is on."

Boucher said he brought forward the proposals because a goalie has not enough room to work in. If the one-foot extension of the crease line is not enough, he will try to have it made larger still.

"Anything that will help the goalie is not remiss," said the 47-year-old Ottawan who was a star centre in his playing days.

HUSBANDS?

WHICH MAKES THE BEST HUSBAND???? "Englishman," 'tis sed, "make good fathers, but poor husbands. They spend a lot of money on themselves but are rarely generous as to household allowances. And their love-making has a blast of Iceland in it too. An Irishman is also no bargain as a husband. He does a lot of bragging about his family, but takes little interest in it." This Chesterfield IS a bargain, you'd take a lot of interest in it, 'cause it's only $159.00 . . . floral wine tapestry, with the new 2 cushions on the sofa. "The Irishman spends his off time in a tavern or a club. He tolerates an untidy home & poor cooking. He is generous to his wife with money if he has any left after being generous to his pals at the taverns. The Scot is excellent husband material. He is a real homebody. Very generous to his family. His love life is a quiet, serene, sincere affair. He is an excellent host & his home is usually a very bonnie place. A Canadian makes the best all-round bet as a husband, especially the Victoria husband. He's a stay-at-home, never takes his wife for granted, and is always thinking up ways of perpetuating romance. He often phones her, pretending he wants a date, and every week, he comes home with some posies & 'Says It With Flowers.' The Canadian is a great lover too." People have been falling in love with this bargain outfit . . . lookit what you get for $159. A beautiful bedroom suite, with a tilt plate mirror, drop-centre vanity, silver slat spring and a fatso S.F. mattress. ASKING—Q. "If it's a girl, my husband wants her named Dorothy, which he says means 'gift of God.' But there are so many girls named Dorothy. Can you think of another name with a meaning just as appropriate?" A. Name her Theodora. That also means "gift of God." Q. "What is the coldest weather you have ever experienced, and where?" A. This is it. We have lived over 10 years on Esquimalt harbor, and this is the first time our Bay has been frozn over. Trudie was simply fascinated on Sunday, when I threw some stones in the water, and they bounced back up again. Q. "What is your favorite radio program?" A. Amos & Andy is still tops with me. There is however a 9 o'clock show every Sunday nite on our local station CJVI, which is rapidly becoming a "must." The sponsors???? . . . humph . . . let's see . . . I think it's us. Q. "Do you write all your own ads, or are they done by a ghost-writer?" A. We don't like to admit it, but we don't employ any ghosts. We do however swipe some material once in awhile, like most of the above for instance, which is from E. V. Durling's Column in the Seattle P.I. with a few lines we threw in on our own. Good bye now . . . see you tomorrow . . . same time . . . same place.

Sudbury Wolves Drop Close Game To Fife

KIRKCALDY, Scotland (CP)—Sudbury Wolves were defeated 2 to 1 Tuesday by Fife Flyers in the final minute of play.

The Wolves, who will represent Canada at the world hockey championship in Stockholm in February, have won only two of the eight games they have played so far on their European tour.

After the match, Max Silverman, Wolves' manager, was involved in a scuffle with a Fife supporter. Police intervened and Silverman was escorted to the dressing room. Police said no charges will be made.

Kamloops Ice Team Bolsters Loop Lead

KELOWNA (CP)—Kamloops Elks moved into a five-point lead in the Mainline-Okanagan Senior "B" Hockey League Tuesday night when they trounced the faltering Kelowna Packers 6 to 2 before 1,800 fans. It was Kelowna's second straight setback at the hands of Kamloops in four nights, pushing the orchard city crew further into the league cellar.

Packers wilted badly in the second and third periods after holding a decided edge in the initial frame.

Dunc Grant Still Leading Scorer In Prairie Ice League

CARGARY (CP)—Edmonton Flyers and Regina Caps are deadlocked in a battle for first place in the Western Canada Senior Hockey League as Flyers rode to three straight victories since Jan. 4.

League statistics released by President D. P. McDonald show left-winer Dunc Grant of second-place Calgary Stampeders leading the pack for scoring honors with an 11-point margin over Flyers' veteran Morey Rimstad.

The high-scoring Flyers hung onto six of the top 10 scoring positions during the week. But Caps, who have been idle since last Tuesday, hold three games in hand over the Allan Cup holders.

Caps' netminder Bev Bentley sits atop the league's goaltending record with four shutouts and a low goal against average of 3.074, unchanged during the week.

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK (AP) — Prize example of double thinking (like doubletalk, you know) was Harvey Harman's recent suggestion to stop giving films of disputed decisions to the newspapers. . . . The papers, of course, would have their own still pictures and recourse to the newsreels (unless the colleges wanted to shut off those, too). . . .

The only result would be to hamper efforts for accuracy. Writers still would criticize officials if they thought they saw a sour decision. . . . In line with that was Referee Sam Schoenfeld's contention that basketball officials are sensitive guys and shouldn't be criticized "unless it is constructve and helps the game." . . . Most of us figure it helps the game to point out that an official is doing a bad job, even if we can't improve his performance.

SHORTS AND SHELLS

Weather note: Convalescent patients at Brooke General Hospital at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, were playing baseball just after New Year's Day. . . . It's considered good informal psychotherapy. . . . Willard Nixon, the pitcher who was signed by Boston Red Sox for a big bonus last spring and farmed out to Scranton, Pa., is back in school at Auburb until spring training time. . . The basketball association publicity department reports that Pat Kennedy lost eight and a half pounds while refereeing a recent Rochester-New York game.

END OF THE LINE

Heine Groh, who hit .474 in the 1922 world series, still is so proud of that feat that he has obtained license No. 474 for his car every year for 26 years. He's had it in three states—Florida now. . . . A star sophomore tumbler on the Penn State gym team is Rudy Valentino—no relation to the famous movie star. . . . And a hockey fan at the Garden, observing a picture of Toronto's Max Bentley (whose nose is rather prominent) exclaimed: "Oh, Look, Pinocchio."

Tips On Golf Rules

By ROBERT FOULIS

Tip No. 83

BALL LOST IN CASUAL WATER

At Gorge Vale, that long, tough course which, for scenic beauty and interesting golf holes, is hard to beat anywhere, four of us were playing in a turkey competition. There had been heavy, continuous rain that December, and some of the fairways were soggy with occasional casual water.

At the 18th (now the ninth) we could see the splash where the drive of one of the players landed. We search for the imbedded ball without success. The player, who had a good score, intended going back to the tee to play his third shot, but we assured him there was no penalty when a ball was lost in casual water. The winter rule for improving lies was in force, so he placed a ball and played his second to the green, and, if I remember right, just managed to win a turkey. See Rule 27 (2). N.B.—Snow is classed as casual water.

ETIQUETTE

(7) Players should carefully fill up all holes made in a bunker.

(8) Players should see that their caddies do not injure the holes by standing close to them when the ground is soft, or in replacing the flag-stick.

Milder Weather Threatens To Put Early End To Skating

No, skating is not over yet. But those who want to take another fling at it before putting their blades back into storage will have to hurry.

Slightly milder weather is spreading over the coastal area and the temperature is rising.

There was one degree of frost last night, William Burton, superintendent of the Meteorological Observatory on Gonzales, reported this morning. He said the mercury would likely go to 38 before the end of the day.

The expected low tonight is 32 and the high for Thursday, 40.

Skies will be mainly overcast today and tomorrow with a few clear periods in the afternoons. Only light winds are forecast. There is still no indication of widespread rains.

Police in the area advise skaters to use utmost caution now milder weather is causing the ice to thaw. Several cases where skaters went through the thin ice Tuesday night, were reported. One skater suffered a broken leg at Panama Flats. Another split his head in a fall and is suffering from concussion.

Astronomer Tells Of Giant Telescope

The work the new Hale Telescope on Mount Palomar, Calif., will do in opening up new fields of study for astronomers was described Tuesday to the Victoria Electric Club by Dr. R. M. Petrie, assistant director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, Little Saanich Mountain.

The recently-completed 200-inch telescope, the world's largest, collects 350,000 times more light than the human eye and will bring into view eight times as much space as the 100-inch telescope at Mount Wilson, Calif., Dr. Petrie said.

He told of 20 years' work that went into the planning and building of the huge telescope. Visualized by the late George Hale, one of the world's leading astronomers at that time, the building of telescope was financed by the Rockefeller Foundation.

The Mount Palomar glass, which has probably received more publicity than any other single scientific instrument, will be available for use by all astronomers. It will serve in the interest of international good will, Dr. Petrie noted.

Smart New Uniforms Made For Page Boys Of B.C. Legislature

The nine page boys who will run messages for the 48 members of the B.C. Legislature for the session which opens Feb. 8, will be in new uniforms for the first time in several years, it was learned today.

Certain changes have been made in the design of the uniforms, and, according to officials in charge of the arrangements for the legislature, the boys will be dressed much more smartly than previously.

The "pill-box" type of cap will be replaced by a "wedge" type cap. It will be in a very dark blue and red.

The uniforms themselves will be in a darker blue and changes have been made in the design on the cuffs and a red stripe is being added to the outside of each trouser leg.

Only the sergeant page boy will be a veteran of previous service in the B.C. Legislature. The other eight, including a corporal yet to be appointed, will be new to the job but they are expected to learn their duties rapidly.

Preparations are in full swing at the Parliament Buildings for the opening of the legislature.

Today painters are varnishing the members' desks and spruce-ing up the marble-pillored legislative chamber. The back row of seats in the ladies' gallery is being raised to permit observers a better view of the proceedings.

Acceptances to the Speaker's invitations to attend the opening of the house are arriving slowly but are expected to speed up as the deadline on Jan. 20 approaches. Officials emphasize that unless a reply is received by Jan. 20, the invitation will be canceled.

A 'Warm Reception'

R. Parcels and family got a really "warm reception" as they were about to move into their new place of residence at 333 Kerr Avenue in Saanich, Tuesday afternoon.

A fire was started in the house to heat it up for the "moving in" operation, but Fire Chief Joseph Law said that a faulty chimney started a fire. Saanich firemen succeeded in controlling the blaze in the wall of the front room.

Firemen were on the job from 2.35 to 4.10. Chief figures damage at about $200.

More Donors Needed

Red Cross officials are searching for more blood donors to attend sessions of the mobile transfusion clinic which will be stationed here Wednesday and Thursday.

The clinic will operate both days at Red Cross House, 1046 Fort Street. Sessions will be held from 1.30 to 4.10 in the afternoons and from 7 to 9 at night.

Skater Breaks Leg

First casualty of a serious nature of the current ice-skating period occurred this week. Roy McDonald, 922 Cloverdale Avenue, suffered a fractured leg in a fall on the ice at popular Panama Flats in the Marigold district. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in a C. and C. ambulance.

Plans Being Made To Build Two New Schools This Year

Ratepayers of the Greater Victoria area may be asked to vote this year on a money by-law to allow construction of two new schools planned for some time—the Topaz Junior High School and the View Royal Elementary School.

Sums of money was set aside for the two schools when by-laws were passed in 1947. But due to an upward surge in building costs, construction was not started.

Urgent need for additional school accommodation is behind the Greater Victoria School Board's action in asking municipal councils to put off for two months until April 15 the deadline for submitting 1949 estimates.

The city received the request today and will deal with the matter at a meeting of the council next Monday.

Plan and specifications for the View Royal school, to be situated off Helmcken Road in the rural area of the district, are complete. But the working drawings for the Topaz School which will be situated off Topaz Avenue, west of Quadra Street near the wartime provincial government bomb-proof shelter for vital statistics, are still in the hands of the architects.

School board officials said tenders will be called as soon as the plans and specifications are completed. Then it will be known how much extra money is required to construct the schools.

The board has $636,000 already available through the 1947 by-law for the Topaz School, and $58,300 for the View Royal School.

The extension of the deadline for submission of estimates will give sufficient time for tenders to be received and the extra money required determined.

If the extraordinary expenditures are comparatively small amounts, the municipal councils may be able to make up the money without having to go to the people with additional money by-laws.

But it is believed the higher costs will make it necessary for votes to be taken.

Says Too Risky A Job To Search For German Heir

This was not the time to look in Germany for a heir to $5,551, especially as most of the country was located behind the "Iron Curtain," H. A. Maclean, solicitor on behalf of the executors of a will, told Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane sitting in Chambers today.

Mr. Maclean was seeking directions from the court to relieve Rev. Robert Connell and William E. Foxwell of their duties as executors of the estate of Minne Barraclough, who died in Victoria in 1938.

The counsel thought that the onus of finding the next-of-kin entitled to the money should be placed on the Attorney-General. He asked the court to allow the money to be turned over to the Crown.

He explained that the executors of the estate had done all in their power to locate an heir to the $5,551.

"We don't think there exist a next-of-kin," he said. "There might be one in Danzig where the deceased was born."

Mr. Maclean expressed the opinion that it would be unwise for the executors to search for a heir in Danzig at this time when Russia and the West were at loggerheads.

"If the money were turned over to the Attorney-General," the solicitor said, "he could search for a next-of-kin when the differences between Russia and the West have subsided. We are unable to do anything."

The counsel explained in court that the deceased had left a sum of $11,405 which was to be divided among several friends and institutions. The Queen Alexandra Solarium received $500, Red Cross, $500 and St. Saviour's Church, $250.

The beneficaries had been paid as well as all the debts of the deceased, he said. There now only remained the $5,551.

Mrs. Barraclough was the widow of John Wendt, a German, by her first marriage. He was killed in Victoria by an explosion of a siphon in a soda water establishment here in 1912. Later she married George Barraclough.

Agricultural Experts To Meet Here Jan. 24 For Conference

Forty agricultural experts representing the provincial and Dominion agriculture departments and the University of B.C. agriculture faculty, are expected to spend three days in Victoria toward the end of this month for the annual convention of the B.C. Agronomists' Association.

The conference will be held Jan. 24, 25 and 26 in the members' room at the Parliament Buildings.

Purpose of the conference is to make recommendations to farmers on various phases of production for the 1949 season.

The delegates will work in various committees to prepare information on cereal and potato varieties; pasture seeding; weed control, specifically dealing with the latest weed killer, 2, 4-D; disease and insect pest control; spray calendars for cereals and vegetables and the best fertilizers to use on the various soils of the province.

The results of the discussions will be published and made available to farmers and others throughout the province.

M. F. Clarke, senior assistant agronomist at the Dominion experimental farm at Agassiz is chairman of the association and C. A. Rowles, professor of soils at U.B.C. is assistant chairman. N. F. Putnam, field crops commissioner in the provincial agriculture department is secretary.

Building Slow-Down

A seasonal slump in building activity is indicated by a slowdown in the last few days at the City Hall building department where construction permits are issued.

Only three permits have been issued since Friday for comparatively large jobs.

Shell Oil Company was issued a permit to carry out $3,000 alterations to a service station at 866 Yates Street, and two house permits were issued, one to G. White, 624 Gorge Road East, for a five-room $7,800 dwelling on Mt. Stephen Avenue, and the other to Eric Hutchinson, 175 Lurline Road, for a five-room $5,600 dwelling at 3050 Scott Street.

Quarreling Couple To Seek Harmony

The middle-aged couple who Tuesday in city police court indicated they had been arguing and fighting off and on for 25 years—she afraid of him because of his "iron fists and long, long legs" and he scared of her violent fits of temper—have been given another chance to try to live in harmony.

Magistrate H. C. Hall found the wife guilty of assaulting and injuring her husband yesterday in the court, and prosecutor C. L. Harrison and the magistrate agreed with her counsel, James Proudfoot, that probably the best means to settle the question was a legal separation.

Mr. Proudfoot told the court that he had drawn up the legal papers in the afternoon but the couple came to see him and requested him to appeal to the court not to separate them.

"They feel they can get along together in future and they want another chance," counsel told the magistrate today. Mr. Harrison said that he was agreeable to that.

Magistrate Hall consented, but decided to place the wife on six months' probation to be of good behavior. She was ordered to post a $500 bond to guarantee this . . . and if she violates the order the money will go to the Crown and she will be brought before the court again.

Herring Fishermen Need Warm Weather

B.C.'s herring fishermen, now mostly on the west coast of Vancouver Island, are praying for warmer weather.

Herring fishing in freezing weather is difficult for the fishermen because the nets and other gear freeze and the catches always are poorer during a cold spell.

The fleet, in port during the cold spell and recent storms, is out on the herring fishing grounds again but warmer weather is necessary, according to officials of the provincial fisheries department, to produce big catches.

The herring season usually proceeds to the end of the month on the west coast. Herring fishing in northern waters continues later.

The season to date has been one of the best in record for recent years.

Dr. Cochrane Head Of Medical Staff At St. Joseph's

Dr. W. J. Cochrane was elected president of the medical staff of St. Joseph's Hospital at an annual luncheon meeting held at the hospital Tuesday. He succeeds Dr. J. H. Moore.

Other officers elected were Dr. L. W. Bassett, vice-president and Dr. G. F. Aylward, secretary. Additional members to the executive committee include Dr. J. H. Moore, retiring president; Dr. A. N. Reid and Dr. V. W. Smith.

Dr. D. B. Roxburgh, medical superintendent of St. Joseph's Hospital, pointed out in a brief address that hospitals were still short of accommodation. He called for the co-operation of all physicians in dismissing patients from hospital as soon as they no longer required active treatment.

This was the only way hospitals could cope with the shortage of beds, he said.

A letter from Sister Superior was also read at the meeting. The letter outlined the hospital's building program, which is now nearing completion.

Approximately 65 doctors were present at the meeting.

$14,236 More Paid In Advance Taxes

A total of $14,236 more was paid in city taxes in the first 11 days of this year than in the corresponding period of 1948, it was reported today by H. G. Allan, assessor-collector.

Up to Tuesday evening $297,752 had been taken in while the amount in the same period last year was $283,516.

Ratepayers will not know their actual taxes this year until the mill rate is set by the City Council. Assessments are known, though, and advance payments on taxes are being made on the basis of taxes levied last year.

The "early bird" taxpayers receive a reduction of 4 per cent per annum up to Oct. 1 The earlier they pay, the greater is the reduction.

Dr. Henrietta Anderson of the Greater Victoria Recreation Council will speak on "The Future of Community Clubs" at the first meeting of the year of the Victoria West Community Centre to be held Thursday evening at 8 in Victoria West school. Election of officers will take place, and plans for building a new community hall will be discussed.

Government Aid For Esquimalt To Be Discussed With Claxton

Need for federal government compensation to Esquimalt in return for the vast, tax-free holdings of the Department of National Defence in the municipality will be shown Defence Minister Brooke Claxton when he visits this area in the near future, Reeve A. I. Thomas has announced.

The reeve intends to take the matter up personally with Mr. Claxton and Fisheries Minister R. W. Mayhew, if he is here at the time.

Esquimalt taxpayers have had to carry too heavy a burden for too long, Reeve Thomas said. It is time now for the government to lend a hand.

At the present time, the government is taxed on property and buildings assessed at $4,962,400. It is exempt from paying taxes on further property assessed at $548,853 and other buildings assessed at $8,827,730.

At the preent mill rate, these exemptions mean a yearly loss of $203,485 to the municipality.

"About 70 per cent of Esquimalt's waterfrontage is held by the Department of National Defence," Reeve Thomas pointed out. "This is valuable property and under other circumstances would bring us in a pretty hefty revenue."

Services provided by the municipality are used extensively by the various services of the government department.

"I see no reason why Esquimalt taxpayers should be burdened with maintenance of streets that are continually being used by defence departments," Reeve Thomas said.

Savage Re-elected By Community Club

Harry Savage was re-elected president of the Cordova Bay Community Club at the annual meeting this week.

Others re-elected to the executive were: Douglas Fletcher, vice-president; Dave Redford, past president, and George Ross, treasurer.

Rev. H. Day was named recording secretary, Mrs. L. Dyer, corresponding secretary and Miss A. Lindstrom, social director.

Fred Sutton was elected sports director, Bernie Rogers, membership director and W. MacIntosh, chairman of the auditing committee. Charles Howarth was chosen to supervise community improvements.

Crime Comic Books Should Be Banned, Say Winnipegers

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Parent Education Association of Winnipeg has condemned crime comic books.

The association passed a resolution at a meeting Tuesday night suggesting the sale of such books be banned. Chairman Mrs. B. M. Davis said object of the resolution is not to ban comics entirely but to stamp out distribution of lurid ones.

"Fifty of these have already been banned in New York state and 35 in the city of Detroit," she said.

Mrs. S. H. Sutherland, another member, said that it "is time we took action to protect our children against the unscrupulous work" of the publishers of such books.

The resolution, adopted unanimously and to be forwarded to Justice Minister Garson, calls for prevention of sale throughout Canada "because crime comics provide a pattern of anti-social behavior in maladjusted children."

Mrs. Sutherland, maintaining that two-thirds of all comics are devoted to crime, said the pattern was to mix violence with sex and to have "the women deliberately sexy and curvy."

Another participant, Mrs. R. Curtis, described crime comics as "propaganda or filth and hair-raising experiences with the greater part of them not funny." She said that children, from reading such comics, "certainly learn words they never learn at home. The children of today will be the morons of tomorrow with a vocabulary of such words as 'wham' and 'zoeiw.'"

War Less Likely Now Than Six Months Ago—Pearson

WINNIPEG (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson believes war between Soviet Russia and the western democracies is less likely now than six months ago.

Mr. Pearson, addressing the closing meeting of the annual Manitoba Liberal Progressive Association convention Tuesday night, said Canadians nevertheless have "every reason to be mortally afraid" of the long-run effects of east-west differences.

"I think that it (conflict) is less likely now than it was six months ago and that the mobilization of opinion in the recent United Nations' Assembly at Paris against Communist policies is one reason why the situation has eased somewhat," said Mr. Pearson.

Another convention speaker was Justice Minister Garson, former Manitoba premier and expert for the federal government on Dominion-provincial relations. He defended the taxation agreements signed by seven provinces —all except Ontario and Quebec —with the federal government.

STILL EXPLOSIVE

Mr. Pearson said the success of the Berlin airlift had tended to stabilize the situation there even though it is as potentially explosive as ever. A contributory factor to the easing of the strain was that the Berlin situation now is before the United Nations' Security Council.

Of the trade with the United Kingdom, Mr. Pearson said Canada should "keep on reminding her, amicably but persistently, that we are not assisting her so that she may reach a position where she can do without our agricultural products."

"We have still every reason to be mortally afraid of the long-run consequence of the division of our world into eastern and western camps; into the free democracies and the Communist despotisms."

The Stalinist doctrine that capitalism can mean nothing but exploitation, conflict and inevitable revolution must be disproved.

". . . Capitalism . . . can have an important effect on world developments by boring within the minds of the Soviet leaders through the social good it can accomplish in other countries. But for that we have to make our capitalist system work socially."

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Congress of Labor handed its left-wing affiliate, the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, another jolt today by announcing it was moving into that union's field among gold miners in the Timmins, Ont., area.

The congress, which has been engaged in a long running battle with the smelters' union over that body's claimed Red leadership, declared it was going to organize the 7,000 Timmins miners into a group directly affiliated with the C.C.L.

Last summer, the congress suspended the smelters' union for a time after its official publication had made an attack on C.C.L. officers. It was reinstated following apologies.

An indication that further steps were being planned against the I.U.M.S.W.'s Canadian leadership was given in the congress announcement today, which said that the "entire matter" of its organization in this country was to be discussed at a meeting in Pittsburgh later this month.

Today's announcement said the congress had asked both the smelters' union and the United Steel Workers of America to withdraw from the Timmins field to permit its organization drive.

At Toronto, C. H. Millard said the United Steel Workers would withdraw from the Timmins field in view of the C.C.L. announcement and he hoped the smelter group would take similar action.

R. H. Carlin, director of the smelters' union, said in Toronto he expected to comment later.

Civil Servant Gets Term For Bribery

OTTAWA (CP)—Charles R. Roe, 42-year-old former civil servant, entered an unexpected guilty plea to a bribery charge Tuesday and was sentenced to six months in jail plus a $300 fine.

Roe pleaded guilty before Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier to having accepted a $400 bribe while employed at the emergency import control division of the Prices Board.

He was specifically accused of having accepted the money from John C. Skelley, Ottawa wholesalers' agent, in return for putting through an $8,000 import quota for a Toronto importing company.
